PERLEY FACES RELIEF CRISIS

OTTAWA, March 28.—Assurance that the Dominion Government would continue to devote itself to solution of the unemployment problem was given the delegation of Canadian mayors who met Acting Prime Minister Sir George Perley and members of the cabinet today. No comment was offered to the suggestion contained in a unanimous resolution adopted at the Montreal conference that the Dominion take over the responsibility for direct relief. Nor did Sir George discuss the suggestion advanced that public financial obligations of the dominion be liquidated by the creation of a new, non-interest bearing token money under the control of the Central Bank. Presentation of arguments endorsed by the 45 mayors who attended was made by eight of them. Perley thanked the speakers.

MISFIT PERSONS FORCED TO TAKE UP HOMESTEADS

Legislature Hears Sorry Story of Men and Women Sent Out Under Three-Way Settlement Plan

A sorry story of misfit men and women sent out to take up homesteads under the three-way settlement scheme which allows them $600 as capital, was told before the legislature this morning, relieved by the evidence of James Hamilton of Britton, an ex-service man, who said he and his wife wanted to stay on their place and make a success of it, only they couldn't get equipment.

He told of cutting ten tons of hay with a butcher knife, which his wife piled to feed their cow, and of losing a finger with an axe while building their home.

Two witnesses complained of persecution and imprisonment.

One man said he had served ten days for shooting a doe deer for meat for his family, while Hamilton gave an amusing account of how Fire Ranger Bowman of Britton had him convicted for not keeping in check a fire that swept down on his place from another property.

HAD TO PAY FOR RIDE

Hamilton had to pay $5 to a man to drive him the 28 miles to face the charge. Three months later when he went to Fort Saskatchewan to serve a three months sentence in default of a $25 fine, the warden didn't want to take him in and let him go free after 22 days.

Some of the members wanted to know the name of the magistrate, which was given as Magistrate Baynes of Britton.

Before hearing individual cases the committee heard A. E. Davis of the Edmonton Loyal Unemployed Association in a plea for work and wages and a protest against relief administration.

"Even the family wash on the line is not proof against the activities of the undercover men employed by the department," he said.

BEDDING NEEDED

Bedding for families that have been on relief for many years is needed, he said. "We are entitled to live as human beings—not as paupers," concluded Davis amid signs of approval.

TAXES GOING UP, REVENUE GOING DOWN

That's Why Vancouver Properties Need a New Deal

VANCOUVER, March 28.—Taxes and assessment going up, revenue going down. That is the story of Vancouver property, and the story of municipal property in other Canadian cities behind the mayors' conference in Montreal.

A committee on taxation was appointed to advise the Vancouver City Council. It sent out 200 questionnaires to property owners on various streets. Of these questions, 111 sent replies. Those replies were compiled into what is now known as the Martin report (George A. Martin is member of the committee).

Here is the plight of the 111 properties, only 18 of which made any money last year. It shows how, in a period when revenue was going down yearly, total assessments were going up, with the result that tax arrears piled up.

City taxes	$ 244,864	$ 349,428
Gross rentals	1,292,040	713,064
Building assessment	3,018,950	2,964,000
Land assessment	5,446,960	6,367,830
Total assessment	8,465,910	9,331,830
Deficits	50,989	280,152

BRITON-SOVIET PARLEY HELD

MOSCOW, March 28. — Foreign Commissar Maxim Litvinoff and Capt. Anthony Eden, British Lord Privy Seal, today discussed "the conclusions to which the Berlin negotiations are leading" during a two-hour conference on the security of Europe.

The British envoy, received with ceremony, talked to Litvinoff in the latter's office in the foreign ministry, and the description of the subject of their talk was made later by well-informed quarters, but these were unable to say what nature of "conclusions" were meant.

POLISH CABINET QUITS OFFICE

A change in the government of Premier Leon Kozlowski has been rumored for some days. Trouble in Poland was intensified recently as two sections of official and public opinion have become divided over the Franco-German issue, and the virtual dictator Marshal Pilsudski is asserted to have influenced an orientation in favor of Germany.

Leicester Ties With Hotspurs

LONDON, March 28.—Leicester City drew into a tie for 21st position with Tottenham Hotspurs today when the City walloped the luckless Spurs 6-0 in an English League, First Division soccer match. The teams are three points behind the 20th place Birmingham eleven.

POLICE GUARD DIONNE QUINTS

CALLANDER, Ont., March 28.—Armed police assigned to guard the Dionne quintuplets moved into the Dafoe Hospital today to live with the famous children, 10 months old today, until all danger of their being kidnapped is past.

Constables W. McCord and W. Noyes of the Ontario police will watch over the five daughters of Oliva and Elzire Dionne day and night, sleeping in the attic of their hospital and taking their meals there. While one rests the other will stand guard. Most of the time both will be on duty.

The move, only departure from the hospital's orderly routine on the youngsters' "birthday", indicated the Ontario government still places credence in rumors of a plot to spirit the children out of the control of provincial authorities into the United States.

27 HORSES IN STARTING LIST

AINTREE, Liverpool, March 28.—Riding arrangements were completed and 27 horses listed as starters for tomorrow's renewal of the Grand National Steeplechase, while the vanguard of what is expected to be a record crowd began to pour into Liverpool tonight.

Eggs at Dime Dozen — Price Was Bargain

HAMILTON, Ont., March 28—Hardly through with a milk war, Hamilton, Wednesday was in the midst of an egg war. Trouble started on the Central market when a dealer sold several hundreds of dozens at one to two cents below prevailing levels. Farmers banded together in an attempt to stop the war by cutting their prices. Eggs at 10 cents a dozen is the prediction.

Baruch Is Suprise To Arms Probe

WASHINGTON, March 28.—Expecting an argument, a surprised United States senate munitions committee Wednesday heard Bernard Baruch, white-haired master of finance, agree in the main with the committee's pet theories for taking profit out of war. Baruch, chairman of the war industries board under President Woodrow Wilson, told of his own financial affairs, saying he sold all holdings from which a profit would arise due directly to the war before entering government service. His income, he said, was at that time drastically reduced.

BOO BROWNLEE FOR CRITICISM OF ABERHART

Ex-Premier, Addressing Home Constituency, Says Plan Fallacious

PONOKA, March 28—A mixture of applause and boos greeted J. E. Brownlee, M.L.A. for Ponoka, when he scathingly denounced William Aberhart's social credit scheme as fallacious. Mr. Brownlee addressed a large meeting of his home constituents Wednesday night. He pointed fallacies in the Aberhart plan and ended his speech with a defence of the U.F.A. government's record.

"I have studied this Social Credit advocated by Aberhart and would give it all my support if I found it would help the people of Alberta, but this thing is fallacious," Mr.

BELGO BOURSES CLOSED 3 DAYS

BRUSSELS, Belgium, March 28—The government today ordered the Belgian bourses to remain closed for the next three days, beginning today.

The order was published in a special edition of the Official Gazette. There will be no quotations of foreign exchange in the country during the period the bourses are closed.

Closing of the Belgian bourses for three days was the latest development in the nation's efforts to solve its currency problems.

When the gold position of the belga appeared to be threatened several days ago, the French government extended promises of assistance in an attempt to prevent Belgium from seceding from the gold bloc.

SIR JOHN SAYS WAYS DIFFER

By GEORGE HAMBLETON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, March 28—Fresh from his Berlin talks with Adolf Hitler, Foreign Secretary Sir John Simon frankly told the House of Commons this afternoon the conversations with the Reichsfuehrer revealed "considerable divergencies of opinion."

Northern Roads In Bad Condition

All roads throughout the northern section of the province are in a bad condition, according to the latest report issued by the Alberta Motor Association. Ploughs are working overtime but the wind fills the roads with drifted snow as fast as the ploughs are able to open them up. The highway from Edmonton to Edson and Jasper is the only road reported available to traffic.

Sunday Ads. On Radio Banned

OTTAWA, March 28.—The Canadian Radio Commission today decided to prohibit sales talks or spot advertising on Sundays over Canadian stations. This will apply to all stations in the Dominion. The date when the new order will take effect will not be fixed until a study has been made of existing contracts.

Reid Government Kills Effort To Support Mayors

Liberal Leader Wins Conservatives, Independents, But Premier Rules Nothing "Emergent, Necessity or Urgent" in Crisis Message

Rallying to the support of the 77 mayors of Canadian cities and towns concentrated at Ottawa pressing for a new deal in relief financing; declaring that municipal districts could no longer bear the burden of unemployment relief, and urging immediate action to alleviate a serious, precarious position, W. R. Howson, K.C., provincial Liberal leader, at the opening of the Wednesday afternoon sitting of the legislature, moved adjournment of the house to discuss the entire situation and to send a message of endorsation of the demands of the mayors, to Acting Premier Sir George Perley.

Tories, Independents Join Liberal Move

And while the Liberal chieftain once more was met with refusal by the government in this move to aid the cities by having the Dominion assume the entire unemployment relief cost, as he had been last week in moving that cabinet ministers' salaries be reduced by a total of $9,900 to save the taxpayers, he won united support from the Conservative and Independent forces.

Mr. Speaker George N. Johnston ruled Mr. Howson's motion "out of order."

But, before the afternoon was over, Mr. Howson had drawn D. M. Duggan, provincial Conservative leader, to his side and a dogged battle was waged within the chamber to have a resolution of encouragement go forward to the valiant mayors assembled at Ottawa.

Oppose Until Closure Comes

This move was stubbornly resisted by the government and finally closure was applied and Mr. Speaker, calling for "order," marched out of the house under the guardian eye of the Acting Sergeant-at-Arms, the official adjournment hour of 6 p.m. having been reached.

But the rally instituted by Mr. Howson had gained momentum and would not be stopped. Even though opposed by the government, Mr. Howson and Mr. Duggan, with the endorsation of F. C. Moyer, K.C., Independent leader, forwarded, over Mr. Duggan's signature, the following telegram to Sir George Perley, acting Premier of Canada:

ENDORSATION SENT

"Liberal, Conservative and Independent groups in Alberta legislature endorse request of mayors conference to relieve municipalities of costs of unemployment relief. Situation in western cities becoming very serious. Firmly believe that immediate action is essential to protect credit structure from serious impairment."

PARIS IN FEAR GOLD COLLAPSE

PARIS, March 28.—A collapse of the gold bloc within a few months was feared by financiers today as a consequence of the reported imminent devaluation of Belgian currency, a sudden Swiss monetary crisis, and the increasing gravity of the French money situation.

The closing of the Belgian bourses today was taken as a signal that devaluation was imminent or that the Belga would be permitted to drift.

BERLIN, March 28—Victor Lutze, chief of the Nazi storm troops, has resigned.

Japanese Cling To Pacific Mandates Forsaking Geneva

TOKYO, March 28.—Japan gave up her membership in the League of Nations Wednesday, but made it clear she has not the slightest intention of slackening her grasp on either her mandated islands in the equatorial Pacific, which the League bestowed upon her, or on Manchuria, which the League tried to take away.

Her seizure of Manchuria caused the disagreement with the League which led to Japan's secession two years ago.

Her determination to retain possession of the Pacific mandates has led Japanese Nationalists to point to March 27, 1935, as a day of "crisis," when Japan might have to take her stand against League members or other states that might want to terminate her possession on the ground she held them under the League's mandate and that her title should lapse with her departure from the League.

The highest Japanese authorities, including Premier Keisuka Okada and especially the admirals who strongly influenced imperial policy, have declared Japan's inflexible decision to keep the islands as permanent units of the Japanese empire.

These islands, belonging to Germany until the Great War, possess incalcuble strategic value in any struggle for naval mastery of the Pacific. The admirals therefore have declared them to be Japan's "life line" in the Pacific ocean.

Division Of Relief Aid Looms

By THOS. WAYLING
Exclusive to Edmonton Bulletin

OTTAWA, March 28.—Proposals to relieve the municipalities of relief costs are under consideration by the government. The proposals provide for a division of relief costs: two-thirds from the Dominion, and one-third from the provinces, with the municipalities carrying out administration and covering the cost of the administration.

OTTAWA MAY ADJOURN ON APRIL 18TH

Five-Week Holiday, With September Election, Caucus Topics

OTTAWA, March 28.—Adjournment of parliament on Easter Eve for about five weeks and a September election were said last night to have found favor with those who attended Wednesday's government caucus. No official statement was forthcoming but it was learned these matters were discussed and the decision will be reached by cabinet council.

Reassuring reports of Prime Minister R. B. Bennett's condition were given caucus by Sir George Perley who presided. The Prime Minister has about a week to go on his prescribed period in bed, and it was stated his improvement had been steadily maintained for more than two weeks.

Adjournment until about the last week in May will be taken on April 18 unless present plans are changed, according to the best information.

ARMED THUGS SEIZE $5,000

HAMILTON, Ont., March 28.—Two armed men entered the Royal Bank branch at Gage avenue and Main street about one o'clock, held up the cashier and teller, and fled with a cash box containing approximately $5,000.

Culbertson Holds Lead Over Sims

NEW YORK, March 28.—Ely Culbertson retained the edge in his 150-rubber bridge argument with P. Hal Sims today, as they neared the end of the first week of play.

Anxiety Shown At Europe Events

LONDON, March 28. — Private diplomatic exchanges, such as the Anglo-German talks in Berlin, have been branded methods of doubtful utility by Viscount Cecil of Chelwood. The head of the League of Nations union and former lord privy seal expressed deep anxiety last night over the turn of events in Europe.

McGeer Declares He'd Head Riot To Oust Sheriff

No Word-Mincing as 100 Mayors Tell 100 Lawmakers of Impending Riot Menace Should Relief Cease at the End Of Month

By THOS. WAYLING
Exclusive to The Bulletin

OTTAWA, Ont., March 28.—"Vancouver will not pay interest at the expense of any child or any woman. The duty I owe to the people of Vancouver is greater than any duty to interest-bearing bonds," declared G. G. McGeer, mayor of Vancouver, at a joint conference last night between the mayors of the cities of Canada and the senators and members of parliament.

- "If we don't pay the interest, the bondholders may send a sheriff. I'll say this; that if any such sheriff comes to Vancouver I'll organize a riot myself and lead it to throw him in the bay."

Mayor McGeer's outburst came in the middle of mayoral imbroglio, as some of the mayors intimated that riots might follow refusal to pay direct relief, and others differed.

Arrive At Ottawa Ready For Action

At eight o'clock the mayors, having adjourned their Montreal conference to Ottawa, trooped into the railway committee room of the House of Commons. They dined on the train en route from Montreal, to save time, and were ready for action when they arrived in Ottawa.

The chairman, Mayor Wenige of London, occupied a long table bisecting the committee room, being flanked by Mayors Houde and Leeming, sponsors of the relief resolution, and Mayors McGeer and Simpson, sponsors of the finance resolution.

100 Mayors, With 100 Lawmakers

Behind the chairman ranged a hundred mayors; in front of him a hundred senators and members. The proceedings were confined chiefly to the mayoral presentation of their case, the parliamentarians saying nothing but asking two questions during the proceedings.

"The time has come," Mayor McGeer said, "when municipal, provincial and Dominion governments should get together, consolidate all debts and eliminate any possibility of debt default in this country. The time has come, we believe, if a nation's credit is used, we can refund the debt on a basis fair to the debtor and the bondholder."

The province of Quebec had a system where municipalities could co-operate with the province and the Dominion, Mayor McGeer said. It should be copied in all provinces.

McGeer Pleads Banks Canada To Finance Relief

OTTAWA, March 28—"Where is the national government going to obtain the means of financing these new self-liquidating charges upon its treasury?" Mayor McGeer asked the conference of mayors here today. He believed the Bank of Canada should be given authority to finance the provinces and municipalities.

Money or a substitute for money could be created for the purpose with no danger of uncontrolled inflation, he said. It would be non-interest bearing token money given a value fixed by government decree. This could be done in the same manner credit was created by banks operating under legislative statutes.

"Are these problems beyond the ability of men charged with government in the 20th century?" the Vancouver mayor asked.

"Love of mankind and material things made subservient to human needs," said Mayor McGeer. In that way the depression could be broken and a new prosperity introduced.

Princely Pair Back

LONDON, March 28—After many months abroad the Duke of Gloucester returned to England today and received an enthusiastic welcome.

THIS OCCURRED WHILE MAYORS GAVE WARNING

TORONTO, March 28.—Led by a stubby, grey-haired woman wearing an old felt hat, 500 York township unemployed raided the municipal relief offices here Wednesday, shattered windows and engaged in a stone and bottle-tossing riot with police.

The demonstration, which lasted for nearly an hour before the mob was dispersed, grew out of discontent of the jobless with relief allowances.

Six policemen were injured by flying bricks, glass and fists and feet of the rioters. None was seriously enough hurt to retire from duty.

Thirteen were arrested and held without bail. Authorities stated last night that they would be charged with obstructing police in the performance of their duties, or assaulting police, or inciting to riot.

RAIL AMALGAMATION NATIONAL MENACE: MANION

REPUDIATED AS ANY PORTION OF OTTAWA POLICY

Railways Minister Says Canada Has Had Unprecedented Five Years' Progress, Reform.

OTTAWA, March 28.—Amalgamation of the Canadian National and Canadian Pacific Railways would be "a menace to the political and economic life of Canada," Hon. R. J. Manion told the House of Commons Wednesday, repudiating railway merger as a government policy.

The railway minister continued the budget debate in a two-hour speech. He defended the government's record as "five years of progress and reform such as Canada has never had in its history."

Dr. Manion made only passing references to the challenge from the Liberals Tuesday to an immediate election. Polling day, he said, would be within six months and he predicted return of the Bennett government with a bigger majority than in 1930.

The railway minister was the only speaker Wednesday, debate being adjourned at six o'clock by J. S. Woodsworth, C.C.F. leader. It was believed at least one more government member would speak and although Liberals seem determined to end debate, there were no indications when the vote would come.

TAXES GOING UP, REVENUE GOING DOWN

the gross revenue shrank by $500,000.

In the same seven years, taxes increased by over $104,000. The total assessment went up over $800,000.

WHY IT HAPPENED

Five aggravating factors played a prominent part:

1. High interest rates on municipal debt;
2. The burden of unemployment relief;
3. Cutting of provincial grants;
4. Increasing citys share of social service costs;
5. Dominion and Provincial Governments have taken productive sources of taxation, leaving city to depend on land which was overburdened.

The mayors demand that the Dominion Government take over unemployment relief, essentially a national responsibility, and that the Dominion take the lead in an interest-reduction program.

GOVERNMENT STRATEGY

As already told in dispatches from the east, it is understood that despite official denials, the Dominion Government has decided to take over relief.

The Government, however, has been withholding assurance of this before the conference. In this way, with relief costs an immediate issue, the attention of the mayors would be somewhat diverted from interest rates, which is the sore point.

RIMBEY DOG TO GET HOME

TORONTO, March 28.—A Toronto woman, who already has several dogs, today confirmed her desire to provide a good home for the little mongrel dog of Rimby, Alta., that followed his master's body to the morgue, and for days stood on guard, awaiting his return.

She is Mrs. A. E. Tressider. "I thought a little dog as faithful as that deserved a good home," she said. "Of course, if it already has a good home, that is all I am interested in."

Mrs. Tressider heard of the dog's devotion to Thomas Wilson, ex-service man, after he collapsed and died on the road. The dog followed to the morgue and waited patiently for days. Since then the dog has been on the farm of Coroner S. J. Byers of Rimby.

WINNIPEG, March 28.—Arrival this year earlier than usual of flocks of geese is believed here due to dust storms in the United States which have driven the birds to the north. However, they are getting a chilly reception, temperatures around zero being reported general over the prairies.

Brownlee said in his first public home speech since his resignation as premier of the province.

"There is a distinct difference between Social Credit and the thing advocated in this province by Aberhart.

"I do not want to see the people of Alberta led down a blind alley by Aberhart's Social Credit as it is unsound," were other challenging statements.

In explaining Mr. Aberhart's system, Mr. Brownlee said that, at the end of each month, the $25 certificates would be sent to the people, who would exchange them with the merchants for goods. In turn the merchants would send them to the wholesalers to exchange for new stocks. But what would the wholesaler do when he bought goods from the eastern firms who would not accept these notes, he asked.

VOTE OF THANKS

If "social crediters" were put in power there would be a riot in three months, as no one would put up with this form of business, Mr. Brownlee declared.

Only a few questions were asked the speaker and when these were ended a vote of thanks was extended to Mr. Brownlee.

Defending his government's record, he said that, in selling the northern railways, the government received a few million dollars more than the opposition parties had urged them to accept a few years previous. It was through the U. F. A. government that the wheat board was established, he said.

The remedy for the wheat marketing problem, he said, was to change sound money to inflation in order to compete with other wheat countries of the world.

SHIPS COLLIDE IN DOVER FOG

LONDON, March 28—The Hamburg-American liner St. Louis was reported to have collided early today in a dense fog in the Straits of Dover with a vessel which she could not identify.

Shortly afterward a wireless message was picked up from the S.S. Delphin, giving approximately the same position, saying she had collided with an unknown passenger vessel, causing serious damage to the port bow.

Saskatchewan Wants 25 p.c. as Beer Profits

REGINA, March 28—Premier J. G. Gardiner announced Wednesday afternoon that beer prices in Saskatchewan would be regulated to bring the government a return of at least 25 per cent. Negotiations are proceeding with brewers on prices to be paid by the liquor board and by licensees to the board.

Snow Blocks Highway No. 13

CAMROSE, March 28.—Busses and highway motor traffic were again held snowbound between Wetaskiwin and Camrose on Highway 13, Wednesday, when strong northwest winds whipped fresh snows into a blinging blizzard. Drifts piled up high across north and south roads, which were effectively blocked.

Train services were not hampered, however, and passenger trains were running on time despite the drifts. The Canadian National Calgary-Edmonton train arrived here from Stettler Wednesday running on schedule, but its locomotive bore evidence of 10 to 12 foot drifts, as its pilot was smothered in snow, which even covered the boiler.

JOHN BUCHAN GIVES VOICE TO PLEASURE

New Governor - General Has Broken Silence on Appointment

LONDON, March 28. — John Buchan, who will shortly become Canada's governor-general, last night expressed the pride and pleasure he felt at his selection.

Official announcement was made that His Majesty had approved the appointment, whereupon the distinguished Scottish writer and parliamentarian broke the silence he had maintained Tuesday when the unofficial report he had been chosen was circulated.

PROUD TO SERVE

"I am extremely proud to have been chosen as His Majesty's representative in Canada, and not less proud to be given a chance of serving Canada," Mr. Buchan said.

Interviewed at his Westminster Club, Mr. Buchan referred to the fact he had known Canada for many years, had stayed with Viscount Byng of Vimy when the latter was governor-general at Ottawa a decade ago, and had fished in the Maritimes.

FASCINATED BY HISTORY

"I am looking forward," he said earnestly, "to increasing my Canadian friendships, and deepening my knowledge of the Dominion.

"As a historian I have always been fascinated by the romance of Canada's history and her wonderful development in recent years, and I shall count it a special privilege to see at close quarters her handling of the new problems she has to face in common with the whole world.

"I am very certain they will be handled with courage and wisdom."

FACE SLAP NO GROUNDS THIS COURT

CHICAGO, March 28—Superior Judge Joseph David Wednesday discarded his plan for $5 divorces "handed across a counter," and issued a warning.

"After this a slap in the face won't be considered cruelty."

The judge's reversal on liberal divorce policies was based on a supreme court decision that cruelty must be extreme and repeated to warrant divorce.

RUSSIA SEES VISIONS OF NAZI HORDE

Catastrophe Threatens All Mankind, Warns Soviet Press

MOSCOW, March 28. — Considered Soviet Russia's official mouthpiece, the newspaper Izvestia, flatly and strongly urged an eastern security pact today as Anthony Eden neared Moscow to start the Anglo-Russian peace conversations.

Those who do not wish to take part in such a pact, said the newspaper, "will reveal their true aims but will not diminish the significance of this instrument of peace."

Authoritative Russian sources contended that a catastrophe as great if not greater than the great war, threatens mankind.

"German Fascist leaders openly declare their intention of marching their Fascist hordes eastward," the government's English language newspaper, the Moscow Daily News, said today. It added: "Their object is the dismemberment of the U. S. S. R."

"Hitler's pet hope and desire is to see the U. S. S. R. attacked by Japan from the East," the newspaper said.

Mother's Helper Sends Dollar to Cancer Fund

OTTAWA, March 28—A Montreal child Wednesday sent $1 to the King George V. Silver Jubilee Cancer fund with a letter saying he had washed dishes for his mother to earn the money. Another child in the Saskatchewan drought area sent $1 with a letter saying: "My aunt died of cancer; this is to help you find a cure."

Infers Zaharoff Governs Britain

LONDON, March 28—Lord Marley, Labor peer, said in the House of Lords Wednesday he hoped the commission in the forthcoming arms inquiry would be able to "discover whether Britain is governed by the National government or by Sir Basil Zarahoff."

He demanded the inquiry be conducted along sweeping lines, including the compulsory production of documents and records to avoid "hushing-up." The peer quoted from letters introduced at the senate arms hearing in the United States, including some between Sir Charles Craven, chairman of Vickers-Armstrong Ltd., and the heads of American armaments firms.

Argenina Crop Is Below 1934

BUENOS AIRES, March 28—The government's second official forecast last night placed the 1935 Argentina wheat crop at an estimated 6,486,000 metric tons (approximately 255,000,000 bushels), which is 1,301,000 metric tons less than 1934.

The oats crop was estimated at 970,000 metric tons; barley, 886,000, and rye, 401,000.

Our King and Queen

On their Silver Jubilee

The King And Queen Directly After Their Coronation

A NEW life for George, now the Empire's King. Busy though he had been as an ambassador of good-will to the far-flung Empire, nevertheless the task of being King thrust upon him a work that tried even his strength and willingness.

Though he had been King for a year prior to his actual Coronation, it was really at this function that he embarked on his new career. He is seen in today's picture with his helpmeet, Queen Mary, after the coronation ceremony.

Hard and long though he worked, he always had the Queen to assist him; she devoted her life to the business of being Queen and history will record that she many times gave wise counsel to her husband, King George.

It is told of the King that once, when roaming through his garden at midnight, he met a gardener with whom he became friendly. The gardener asked him if he had to work hard. "Well," replied the King, "I started at six this morning, and I am just finishing now."

Howling Germans Attack Legation In Memel Protest

BERLIN, March 28.—Germany's resentment at death sentences imposed on four Nazis in Lithuania was brought sharply home to that country last night when hundreds of howling Germans carried their protest to the very doors of the Lithuanian legation.

Only stout police resistance kept the demonstrators—shouting to Adolf Hitler to "Give it to them in the neck," "Bring Memel home," and "Give us the murderers"—from the legation itself.

The police barricaded the street with trucks. Later the legation laconically said: "No damage done."

(A Lithuanian military court trying 126 Nazis for an asserted plot to start an armed uprising in Memel, former German territory, Tuesday sentenced four leaders, convicted of murder, to death and 87 others to prison.)

Sentences imposed on the 91 Memel Nazis were "incompatible with the evidence" and "dictated by political circumstances," two British observers at the trial in Kaunas charged last night.

GAS, OIL SUPPLY NEAR EXHAUSTION

VICTORIA, March 28—Shortage of oil and gasoline in North America because the rate of consumption is overtaking the supply was presaged by counsel C. H. O'Halloran Wednesday when Mr. Justice M. A. MacDonald's commission investigating the fuel industry in British Columbia resumed sittings here.

Mr. O'Halloran read authoritative figures from trade journals which placed the proven coal reserves of United States at 3,500,000,000,000 tons, equivalent to 4,800 years' supply at the present rate of production. The natural gas supply was placed at enough for 20 years while the proven petroleum reserves were reported down to 13,000,000,000 barrels, representing 14 years' supply on the present consumption basis.

"It is entirely conceivable that in a few years oil will be exhausted," Mr. O'Halloran said.

"We will get gasoline from coal then," said Mr. Justice MacDonald. "That has been discussed. The Research Council at Ottawa has been doing work on this."

Judgment Awarded To Alex. Shandro

Upholding the defendant in a legal battle between two brothers over title to a quarter section of land near Delph, Mr. Justice Tweedie Thursday gave judgment for Alex Shandro in the suit brought by his brother, Andrew S. Shandro.

The land in question had been bought by the brothers in 1927, when they were business partners. In 1929 the partnership was dissolved and the present action was taken to decide which held title to the land.

Fraser Duncan acted for the plaintiff and J. C. McDonald, K.C., was counsel for the successful defendant.

JANE W. TOLMIE DIES AT COAST

VICTORIA, March 28.—Miss Jane Work Tolmie, member of a distinguished family, died at her residence, "Cloverbrae," last night.

She was the second daughter of the late Dr. William Fraser Tolmie, pioneer physician, scientist and legislator; granddaughter of Hon. John Work, early explorer, fur trade factor and member of Vancouver Island before confederation; and a sister of Hon. S. F. Tolmie, former premier of British Columbia.

Decision was made by the Edmonton sinking fund board Thursday to take over at par the city's debenture issue of $250,000 for 1935 relief purposes, the yield rate on these bonds being five per cent. The issue covers half the city's estimated share of $500,000 for direct relief this year.

Other purchases authorized by the board follow: $1,500 Province of Alberta five per cent bonds due in 1940 with a yield rate of 5.12 per cent; $1,500 Alberta five per cent bonds due 1939, yield rate 5.12; $1,000 Alberta five per cent bonds, due 1942, yield rate 5.12; $1,000 Alberta five per cent bonds, due 1939, yield rate 5.25; $2,000 Alberta five per cent bonds, due 1940, yield rate 5.25; $5,000 City of Edmonton 5½ per cent bonds due 1945, yield rate 6.94; $2,000 Edmonton 5½ per cent, due 1945, yield rate 6.87.

49th Battalion Honors Retiring Lieut.-Colonel

Officers of the 49th Battalion bade farewell to Lieut.-Colonel L. C. Harris, V.D., who relinquished command of the regiment on March 14, at a banquet held Wednesday evening in the Prince of Wales Armouries.

Major P. Debney, M.M., who succeeds Colonel Harris as commanding officer, called on Major J. C. Thompson, a war-time officer of the regiment and now second in command to propose a toast to the retiring colonel.

Expressing regret of all ranks at the retirement of their colonel, the speaker traced his career through the years since he first enlisted at McGill University over 35 years ago. A handsomely engraved rose bowl was presented to Colonel Harris on behalf of the gathering.

Colonel A. W. Bannard, M.M.; Colonel Louis Scott, D.C.M., and Lieutenant-Colonel E. Brown, M.M., also paid tribute to the guest of honor.

was presented by Secretary Menzies of the Ex-Servicemen's Association.

"He will be giving it up any time," said Mr. Menzies. "His land is bush land and swamp near Blue Ridge. He has been there a year and a half and can't make it go. The land was selected at a time of year when its disadvantages could not be seen. He has used all but $15 of his $600 provided by the city and the government. One of his horses has died of swamp fever. He has four young children and only $5 a month left.

10 FAMILIES THERE

"About ten families are there. None of them have been successful, and they are holding a meeting on Sunday to see if they will quit in a body."

Capt. Dakin (Lib.): Why were not these men given advice. There are enough homestead inspectors in the employ of the government.

Witness said that $600 was not enough, but that in this case the land was so poor that no amount of money could make success possible.

RETURNED TO TOWN

Another man who had ten children to support and only $10 a month allowance had quit some months before and returned to town.

"I don't think men from the city can be a success on the land," declared Menzies.

A. D. Lang, a settler under the Farm Settlement Scheme, said he had inspected the land in the Blue Ridge district. They had located in May and June 1933. In a year each of the 17 settlers had broken only an average of 1¾ acres.

Mr. Lang is to testify further in the proceedings.

T. Butner, a tall young settler at Rocky Rapids, 22 miles south of Entwistle, said he had done his best to get off relief, transferring a homestead near Bear Lake for his present location.

$10 A MONTH

"I have been unable to do much owing to wet and cold weather. We had $10 a month from the department. I lost a cow and then got pinched for shooting a doe deer.

"When I got back from the jail after serving 10 days I tried shooting squirrels for fur. All I got in three weeks was three squirrels. I lost my horses, and I have been refused relief. Putting me in jail has taken away my ambition. With no cow, no horse, no milk, no feed, no meat and groceries dearer than in the city my family cannot live on $10 a month."

Butner said that Supt. McKee is trying to prosecute him on a charge of cruelty to animals and that his wife refuses to live on the homestead.

WILL QUIT HOMESTEAD

"I don't think I'll ever try to make a living on a homestead again," declared Butner, who said he had worked on farms, had broken horses and in his schoolboy days had herded cows.

Replying to the evidence of Butner, Superintendent McKee said that Butner and his wife both claimed to have had farming experience before they went out under the settlement scheme. "They went of their own free will, and they should be capable of supporting themselves on a farm," said the relief officer, adding: "There's something wrong with an able-bodied man of 24 who can't find feed for his cow. Out of the 280 cases we have sent out into the country, the majority are making a success of it. We don't want to see a good scheme condemned because some able-bodied man doesn't want to get out of bed of a morning to look after his work."

SIMILAR CASE

John W. White of Drayton Valley, another settler under the farm settlement scheme, said his case was similar to Butner's. "I lost both horses and I hadn't the equipment. The land was not good, but cut up by deep ravines. Neighbors who have been there for years are hard up."

White said he had worked 12 summers on farms, worked as a teamster, and had picked the land himself because it was the only one free of muskeg. He had sown five acres in clover and timothy, but hail and drought killed it.

"My wife is discouraged and won't go back, and I don't see why I should have to be away from my family," said White.

TELLS OF TROUBLES

Chas. Oxenham who went out to Collington under the Farm Settlement Scheme, sunk a well, built a barn and house and broke 5 acres of land told of his troubles with a mare that strangled itself by winding a picket rope round a tree, and two cows that died, one being skinned in 50 below weather.

Witness admitted that he had no farming experience other than harvesting. He had come from Wales where he had worked as a broker.

Capt. Dakin: I suppose you realize that you haven't a chance at farming.

Witness: Yes, I do. I have no desire to go back and my wife doesn't want to go back. I'm not a farmer, but I did my best.

J. J. Bowlen (Lib.) Calgary: I would like to hear from Mr. McKee why a man like that was sent out to a farm.

Mr. McKee: I haven't his file by me, but my recollection is that we went largely on Mrs. Oxenham's experience. She had lived all her life on a farm and her people lived out there.

REQUESTS NAMES

M. McKeen (U.F.A.): I'd like to have the names of the people responsible for sending people out to these farms.

F. Falconer (Lib.): There has undoubtedly been a mistake in sending Mr. Oxenham out to a farm. I hope the board will not exercise its perogotive to send him back there.

CUT OFF FINGER

The witness told of cutting off an index finger while building his house and going 12 miles to a doctor who said he couldn't do anything as he was on relief.

"I came to Edmonton, but they told me a finger wasn't much to lose. I went to the Royal Alex. but the doctor didn't show up till three days later.

"Mr. MacKenzie told me that my wife and I were just a damn nuisance and had to go to our homestead. I had to walk 28 miles with our food allowance from Breton to our homestead.

Later on witness was summoned by the fire ranger, and had to pay $5 out of his $10 a month relief to a man with a team to take him to Breton where he was fined $25 and costs or three months in jail for letting the fire run off his land.

Later on, said Hamilton, my old dad, aged 83, got his old age pension and he gave us the money to come to town.

"When I went to the Fort to serve the 3 months sentence" said Hamilton, "the warden didn't want to take me in.

'You should have been here 3 months ago' he said. They kept me there for 22 days and let me go."

WALKED 75 MILES

Hamilton said that last time he and his wife came in to try to get money for equipment for the homestead, they walked the 75 miles, taking turns in carrying the baby.

The last time he came in seeking equipment he was told that his relief would be cut off. When he couldn't get his wife examined for injuries, Dr. Baker did it for nothing, saying she ought not to go back to the homestead for six months, but Dr. Day for the Board said she had no right to go to Dr. Baker and should go back to the homestead at once.

"If I've put up a house without equipment, couldn't I do better if I had equipment," argued Hamilton.

MAJOR SENT HIM OUT

It was Major Younger who sent him out in the first place said witness, who wants to go back to the homestead so long as he can get equipment.

"I've got a little land broke for a garden, but I had to do it with a spade," he told Mr. Bowlen.

Mr. Bowlen: "Well, you've got lots of courage."

Witness said he wasn't accused of starting the fire, for which he was sent to the Fort. It didn't originate on his land. The conviction was for letting the fire get away from him.

Mr. Bowlen: I've seen a fire get away from a hundred men.

MAGISTRATE BAYNES

Mr. McKeen: Who were the magistrate and constable who had you convicted?

Witness: It was Magistrate Baynes and Fire Ranger J. Bowman who prosecuted me. The constable, Mr. Lapointe was opposed to prosecuting me.

Hamilton said that lacking implements he had cut ten tons of hay with a butcher knife and his wife had piled it.

Commissioner A. A. MacKenzie questioned about Hamilton's case said that he had never told him he would get on the $600 plan. "Our greatest job was to keep him out there. He was always coming in wanting different things—roofing, window frames, a bucksaw and other things.

"If Hamilton will play the game, we'll play it with him," said MacKenzie in asserting that Hamilton was too fond of running into the city.

WAS TROUBLE-MAKER

Inspector Johnson, who investigated Hamilton's case, said Constable Lapointe told him that Hamilton was a trouble-maker. He would not work his relief allowance off on road work and it made hard feelings in the district. He is accused out there of advising his neighbors not to do any work.

He was getting $12 a month relief—about twice as much as most in the district and the department was accused of favoritism to him.

DIPLOMATS IN LONDON HAVE MYSTERY AIR

Berlin Situation Laid Before King—Cabinet Report Also

LONDON, March 28—Sir John Simon, foreign secretary, last night laid before the cabinet a succinct verbal report of the conversations in Berlin with Chancellor Adolf Hitler.

The meeting lasted only a short time and no statement was forthcoming after it.

Not in years has there been such an air of weighty diplomatic mystery in Downing Street and within the precincts of the foreign office.

The British foreign secretary arrived in the afternoon by plane from Berlin, but maintained the same good-humored secrecy which had characterized his Berlin statements for publication.

Confronted by newspapermen he said politely but firmly he had no statement to make.

Before the cabinet meeting Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald spent half an hour with the King. There was little doubt in the minds of observers that His Majesty was informed of the Berlin talks and the exact situation prevailing.

From high sources it became known last night Sir John brought back a much weighter list of demands from Der Fuehrer than was first suspected.

CAPITOLS OF EUROPE ALL AT TENSION

By Canadian Press

Germany's apparent demands for virtual revision of the entire peace treaties, made publicly yesterday, put new tension into the uneasy European situation. Developments:

London—The cabinet held a special session last night to hear the foreign secretary's report on the Anglo-German talks in Berlin, following an audience Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald had with His Majesty.

Berlin—Hitler stood firm on his demands for wide concessions as the price of entering a collective security system, while agitation over the sentences on Nazis in Lithuania flared throughout Germany.

Paris—The government moved to appropriate for more air force funds quickly.

Danzig—Reich air minister Goering will visit the free city on the eve of its new elections.

Praha—Rumanian foreign minister conferred with the government to strengthen Little Entente's stand with France and the Soviet Union.

London—The German envoy to Ethiopia has offered German support against Italy, it was reported.

CANUCKS WIN GAME BY 23-1

KYOTO, Japan, March 28. — Canada's touring Battleford Millers hung up the fourth consecutive victory of their Japanese hockey invasion when they defeated the Keio University team 23-1 here today.

Faces Charge Of Stealing Wheat

Charged with stealing 100 bushels of wheat from a granary on the farm of Steve Zarusky, a neighbor, in the Smoky Lake district, Nick Husarchuk, went on trial before Mr. Justice Ford and a jury in criminal court Thursday.

A brother of Zarusky is alleged to have followed wagon-wheel marks from the looted granary to accused's farm.

The jury selected is composed of: G. Gruden, H. G. Hunt, H. Robinson, J. H. Fulton, J. P. Renaud and R. Kennedy.

N. Romaniuk is defending and E. B. Cogswell, K.C., is prosecuting. The case is continuing.

PASADENA, Calif., March 28.—The condition of Viscount Byng, who was seriously ill here a few weeks ago following a heart attack, was described Wednesday as remaining favorable. The former governor-general of Canada was described as "virtually recovered" and planning to leave for England shortly.

PREPAREDNESS PEACE HOPE OF MUSSOLINI

Modernized Air Fleet Of Italy Ready, Away Before Schedule

ROME, March 28—Italy pinned her hopes for peace today on her preparedness for war. The nation's modernized and enlarged air fleet will be completed three years ahead of schedule, in time for the 1936-1937 manoeuvres, the chamber of deputies was assured.

The international peace talks at Stresa were generally regarded as a last, slim chance for securing accords. But the chance has been narrowed, officials said, by the lack of concrete results from the Anglo-German conversations in Berlin.

Giuseppe Valle, under secretary of state for aviation, told the chamber of deputies Italy's new air fleet would be completed in three instead of six years, at a cost of 1,200,000,000 lire (about $98,880,000).

POLES JOIN GERMANS IN ANTI-SOVIET POLICY

PREMIER REID HAS DEAF EAR FOR RELIEF AID

probation of Mr. Howson's move and the reception accorded it by other groups. Unwillingness of the government to participate immediately in the resolution was the subject of much comment.

When the opening prayers in the legislature were completed and the house settled itself to business, Mr. Howson rose and declared "I beg leave to move adjournment of this assembly on a matter of grave public importance."

He resumed his seat and Mr. Speaker asked him the purport of his motion.

Again rising, Mr. Howson read from a report of the radio speech of Mayor Andy Davison of Calgary, delivered on Tuesday evening.

"The larger cities of Canada have carried the burden of unemployment relief for the last five years, but they have now reached the point where they are no longer able to carry this burden and meet their obligations," read Mr. Howson.

"There is no desire on the part of the cities to shirk responsibility in this matter, but we do seek to get the burden placed where it belongs.

"The concentration of transient unemployed in cities has been the experience of all depressions. The transient unemployed flock to the cities in search of work and there is not enough work even for bona fide residents, so the transients go on direct relief. Cities are called upon to bear the costs of hospitalization and medical aid to these people. There is no reason why these people should be classed as civic charges. Such a system is unfair and unjust.

"It is a duty of the national government to maintain a sound and practical monetary system that will at all times provide national, provincial and municipal governments with the means of financing all public enterprise and social service. This does not mean uncontrollable inflation, the nationalization of our merchant banks or the socialization of private finance."

CALL FOR ACTION

Pointing out that such utterances from mayors of western cities gave a true picture of the situation, Mr. Howson declared that "on the basis that the municipal districts can no longer carry the burden of unemployment relief, I am suggesting that this house should adjourn to discuss the matter and send a message to the mayors conference and suggest that the burden of unemployment relief be placed where it belongs, namely on the national government."

Joseph M. Dechene, Liberal, St. Paul, first lieutenant of Mr. Howson, joined his leader. "This has got beyond local authority," he declared. "This situation is of such importance that the national government should take action and relieve the local authorities of their unbearable burdens."

"NOT EMERGENT"—PREMIER

Premier R. G. Reid, in reply, declared that the unemployment relief situation had not arisen all of a sudden and on that account it was not emergent. The action desired by Mr. Howson, he submitted, could be brougrt about by resolution in the regular way.

Mr. Speaker upheld the premier's contention that it was not an emergent situation, in that it had not suddenly arisen. "In my opinion it does not come within an emergent situation and it will have to be dealt with in the ordinary way," he ruled. Members of the house were familiar with the existing situation, he said.

The house then proceeded to deal with unemployment and farm relief estimates.

But the incident was not closed and the movement, instituted by Mr. Howson, was spreading through the house.

DUGGAN TO FORE

Just before the house rose for the 6 p.m. adjournment, Mr. Duggan asked that a reversion be made to Orders of the Day. In view of the previous discussion, he hesitated to again bring up the matter but in view of the fact that 77 Canadian civic heads were proceeding to Ottawa to interview the Dominion government, he deemed the situation of sufficient importance to bring it up once more.

"I am firmly of the opinion," he said, "that we right now should endorse at least one of their requests and I am sure the house will agree to suspension of the rules to permit introduction of a resolution to this effect. This is not an unusual request, as the government has frequently sought similar action on matters or urgency. I submit that this is a matter of great urgency.

'NO NECESSITY'—PREMIER

Premier Reid stated that he presumed the resolution to which Mr. Duggan was referring was asking that the Dominion assume the entire cost of unemployment relief. He said that this very thing had been urged on occasions by the provincial government and he expressed his thorough concurrence in the idea. He could not see the necessity of getting a resolution through the house in a hurry to forward to Ottawa and was not deeply impressed by the arguments in its favor.

Mr. Speaker reminded Mr. Duggan that the resolution, in any case, could not be proposed under Orders of the Day.

The Premier said that the legislature did not want to do anything precipitately. He declared his willingness to get together with party leaders and draft a resolution to be forwarded on Thursday.

Mr. Duggan here charged that haste need not be considered, as the house had on occasions approved of "Millions of dollars much more hastily."

Now thoroughly roused, Mr. Duggan demanded to know "if you refuse to permit us to introduce this matter of urgency?"

The Premier replied that he was not in a position to say just what had to be done, but in any case, he could not see the urgency of immediate action.

Mr. Duggan then vehemently demanded if he was not to be given the "courtesy of an answer."

The hands of the clock had just passed 6 p.m.

"The house stands adjourned until tomorrow, Thursday, at three o'clock," intoned Mr. Speaker.

"Am I not . . ." commenced Mr. Duggan.

"Order," retorted Mr. Speaker.

At this the towering Sergeant-at-Arms advanced, lifted the mace from the table of the house, placed it over his shoulder and marched from the house, closely followed by Mr. Speaker.

Later, Mr. Duggan revealed the text of the resolution which he had intended to move. It was as follows:

"Resolved, that this assembly endorses the request of 77 cities and towns at their conference at Montreal that municipalities should be relieved from expenditures for unemployment relief and that this resolution be sent at once by telegram to the Dominion government and to the chairman of the mayor's conference."

Professional Prospector At Age 73

ROBERT ALLOWAY,

73-year-old Edmonton prospector who has prospected in Ontario, Manitoba, British Columbia and Northern Saskatchewan, was taken on the staff of North West Minerals last July. He made gold discoveries on nine of the 45 claims held by this company at Lake Athabasca. He wintered on the property and will continue his work when the break-up comes. When in Edmonton he resides at 9627 108 street.

Alloway came to Canada from Queen's county, Ireland, around the Horn in 1887, landing at Seattle when that city consisted of one muddy street of straggling houses.

He was a member of the Royal North West Mounted Police serving for a number of years at Calgary. During the war he served overseas with the 12th C.M.R.'s.

Police Pistol Shots Vie On Indoor Targets

With several good scores registered, the Royal Canadian Mounted Police revolver team from "K" division "shot it out" Wednesday afternoon for the R.C.M.P. inter-division championship and the Chief Constable's trophy.

The competition shooting was held in the city police gallery and the targets will be forwarded to Dominion headquarters at Ottawa before scores are announced. The team competes with city police teams for the Chief Constable's trophy.

Watch Japanese Advises Speaker

Belief that a better day will come soon in the east cannot be held by anybody who has really studied the situation, declared Dr. George S. Patterson during an address "What is Japan up to?" delivered at the regular weekly council meeting of the Chamber of Commerce held in the Hudsonia Wednesday noon.

Held under the chairmanship of Gerald O'Connor, the meeting was well attended by members of the council.

With the development of Western civilization in the east, said Dr. Patterson, there has come a form of capitalization which has brought with it a feeling of distrust among the Japanese people. The west, he said, should watch to what extent the conflicting forces in Japan would bring about changes in the future.

Missionaries Reported Safe

SHANGHAI, March 28—The Nationalist government at Nanking announced Wednesday it had been confirmed that Mr. and Mrs. S. C. Frencham, missionaries thought to have been killed by Communist rebels in southern Shensi province, were alive and safe. The Australian missionary and his London wife were believed to be en route to Sian, Shensi.

MAYORS TELL OF CRISIS IN PLAIN WORDS

couver Mayor said. He visualized two men who, 10 years ago, had the same amount of money. One brought a house, the other a bond. Now, under depression, he asked why the home-owner should be taxed out of existence to pay the man who owned the bond.

It was imperative, Mayor McGeer said, that interest rates come down in Canada.

CUT INTEREST—NOW

"They must come down and that without any more delay." It was social justice and good business to reduce interest rates.

Without further delay, there should be a national refunding and consolidtaion of debts in Canada, Mayor McGeer said. In addition, the Dominion should have some board to supervise public issues in the future.

Mayors were prepared to recognize that future issues of securities should be regulated and controlled in the national interest.

MUST STANDARDIZE

Canada had to be financed to the standard of tourist travel maintained in the United States if the country was to take advantage of its greatest opportunity. Highways and railways had to be maintained to a high standard. There were great works to be done and men anxious to do the works were living in relief camps on a low subsistance level. They were a menace to public order because of their discontent. These works should be financed.

CENTRAL BANK-RACKETS

The Bank of Canada was a "service station to a number of credit-dealing rackets," said Mr. McGeer.

It was not a national bank at all and would not serve the purpose of putting Canada's finances on a proper basis. A private banking monopoly was allowed to issue four dollars for every dollar in gold.

The banking and money system was bankrupting provinces and municipalities. The banks should be used as "a service station first to the governments of the country and secondly to the people of the country." It should at all times provide a means for the exchange and distribution of all the goods and services the people were capable of producing and needed for their comfort and happiness.

TAX COLLECTION

Income taxes should be collected by the Dominion, where there was duplication, who would hand part of it back to the provinces and municipalities.

In addition, Mayor McGeer urged gold be conscripted and used to pay off debts.

Municipalities were being faced with the alternative of cutting off public services or repudiating debts, Mayor McGeer said. "In my own city I won't pay interest at the expense of any child or any woman."

The municipalities did not want to default, Mayor McGeer said, and did not want to injure the credit of the nation. There must be changes in the financial system.

MONTREAL SPEAKS

Mayor Houde pointed out that the federal government was dealing with unemployment insurance as a federal matter. Unemployment relief itself being a federal matter it should also take that over, the municipalities could not continue to carry this burden.

"If direct relief should stop in Montreal," said Mayor Houde, "would it become a question for Ottawa? I think so. Where would the mayor take his powers to stop rioting—from Ottawa. If we cannot go on any longer paying relief you can easily figure what is going to happen in a few days after we stop."

DISASTER—UNLESS!

"The situation is becoming more acute every day; it may easily become disastrous at any time," he said. "It is not that we want to switch responsibility but we want to make you aware where the situation is leading. On March 31, the present agreement between the Dominion and the provinces will terminate. What will happen then?"

Mayor McGeer told of his struggles with the financial situation in Vancouver. British Columbia at present owed the Dominion $15,000,000 for treasury certificates deposited for advances. If the Dominion had not aided the western provinces they would have been bankrupt. He referred to the work camps near Vancouver, where the unrest was such as to menace the peace and good government of the city.

"One of my first tasks as mayor of a Christian city was to organize the police to prepare for riot trouble.

This because there was no work for men who wanted to work."

FREELY MAKE THREAT

Mayor Cragg of Halifax waxed indignant over the situation. "We are prepared to make a threat," he said, "any member who does not support the vital needs of this country; well, it will be just too bad for him. There is an election coming in a few months. I am telling you how serious this situation is."

There were cries of "order."

The chairman: "Mayor Cragg is in order. He was merely telling you what these mayors think."

Mayor Cragg: "Somebody's got to do this job and if you don't do it then these gentlemen are prepared to take it on."

DEAL AT POLLS

The Mayor of Halifax added that he was glad they had not appeared before the bar of the house as they could now say just what they wanted. "If we don't get from the members what we want then we will deal with them elsewhere, that is, at the polls."

Mayor Houde intervened to say the question of rioting in Vancouver or elsewhere was not discussed at the conference. "We are to plead for you to do something for us, not to threaten what we will do to you."

EMPHASIZE 'RIOTING'

Mayor McGeer: "Just a minute, Mr. Chairman, I want to say that the Cromwell in this party is the Mayor of Montreal. I don't want to be revolutionary but I want to say the subtle suggestion of rioting was in his speech and I think it should be emphasized a little."

IMPERIALISTIC PILSUDSKI PLAN BEING REVIVED

Friend of Marshal Slated To Head New Cabinet in Gentral Political Realignment.

WARSAW, March 28—A significant political realignment is being prepared in Poland, it was authoritatively learned last night, which may remove Premier Leon Kozlowski, align Poland with Germany in a strong anti-Soviet policy, and revive the old Polish imperialism latterly espoused by Marshal Joseph Pilsudski.

Col. Waleryan Slawsk, an old friend of Pilsudski, was said to be slated to head a cabinet in which veteran key men will be replaced by men close to the Marshal, and which finally will make clear Poland's foreign policy.

The revival was predicted on the old slogan "Poland from sea to sea"—that is, from the Baltic to the Black Sea—one of the cherished dreams of Polish imperialists.

FORCES BEHIND THE DEMAND

"We need relief from relief" is the slogan of the assembled Mayors of Canadian cities who are presenting at Ottawa a demand "That from and after April 1st the Dominion Government take over and assume the entire cost of unemployment relief in Canada."

The advance signs do not encourage a hope that the demand will get farther than the presentation stage. But the Mayors represent cities whose residents number 5,000,000 people, approximately half the population of Canada. Governments have been known to change their minds quickly in such circumstances.

Besides, parliament is in session, the opposition is on the drive, and there is a general election in the offing. These political considerations reinforce the appeal of the Mayors for sympathetic attention on the merits of their case. It is early to assume that nothing will come of the demand.

REDISTRIBUTING WEALTH

Those wily individuals who have been handing over their property to wives, sons, daughters, sisters, brothers, cousins, aunts and uncles, and thereby escaping income taxation, must be mind-readers. Mr. Rhodes is putting a stop to that method of effecting the much-urged redistribution of wealth.

He is imposing a gift tax on such transfers of ownership, which is calculated to hit just as hard as the income tax the owner would have to pay if he kept the property. Since the gift tax is not retroactive beyond the first of the present year, congratulations go to those who did their giving last year or earlier.

Whether the recipients come in for a share of the congratulations is another matter. Property of any kind in Canada is getting to be a doubtful asset, where it is not already a positive liability. The fast growing interest bill on public debts is sharpening the scent of the tax-levyers, municipal and provincial, as well as federal. We are approaching the time when if anyone wants to transfer property to somebody else he may have to give him a cash bonus to take it.

The only kind of wealth-redistribution Mr. Rhodes is actively interested in is the "redistributing" of money out of the pockets of the public into the pockets of bondholders.

WHO CARES ABOUT ESTIMATES?

The need for a general election is plain, to the point of being pathetic, when a Government with a die-hard majority of eleven over all opposition members can muster a plurality of only one to defeat a motion to send the estimates back to the Ministers for reconsideration.

Supporters of the Reid Government have reached the stage of lethargic evolution where they no longer pretend to have an active interest in the budget or positive confidence in the budget-making talent of the Ministers. They absented themselves from the house in such numbers that the chairman of the committee had to come to the rescue in order that the Government could get its estimates before the legislature.

It is time to end this sorry farce and get back to the reality of representative government. If the supporters of the present Ministry are no longer interested in the spending of public money, in what branch of the public business may they be supposed to have any deep concern? And if a Government cannot frame estimates to arouse some appearance of enthusiasm among its supporting members, the time has come for it to hand back to the electors the mnadate they gave it.

The present legislature has long out-lived its usefulness, and should be dissolved forthwith.

A QUESTION OF WILL ONLY

The national conference of city Mayors decided to ask the Dominion authority to do two things. First, to relieve the cities of the share of unemployment relief cost they now bear. Second, to assist the cities to refund their debt obligations at reduced rates of interest, three per cent being urged as a fair rate.

Hon. Wesley Gordon threw cold water on the relief appeal the other day, and Hon. E. N. Rhodes spread a wet blanket over the refunding proposal in the course of his budget speech.

Mr. Gordon said it would cost the Dominion a large amount of money to build up and maintain a nation-wide organization to look after the spending of federal money for relief purposes. Mr. Rhodes said: "It appeared (last fall) that the time was fast approaching when practically all public bodies could secure the advantages of refunding outstanding issues at substantially lower interest rates, but a temporary clogging of the market and certain widely heralded statements have clouded the outlook for the time being."

Both statements are evasions, and nothing more than evasions. Neither of them is a candid and valid reason why the requests cannot be complied with.

Mr. Gordon must understand, as everybody else understands, that there are ways in which the Dominion can make up to the cities what they spend on relief, and leave the cities to carry on the spending operations as at present and under the full present pressure to see that relief money is not wasted. Mr. Rhodes knows, pretence to the contrary, that he can refund the debts of the cities in interest-free money if so minded; and that his threat to do so would bring prompt offers to refund at reasonable rates from the bond-holders' organizations.

There is no question of power involved in the response that will be made to these appeals from the harassed and imperilled cities. It is altogether a matter of will. The Dominion can take over relief costs and refund city debts if it wants to.

Poems That Live

POOR KINGS

God's pity on poor kings,
They know no gentle rest;
The North and South cry out,
Cries come from East and West—
"Come, open this new Dock, Building, Bazaar or Fair,"
Lord, what a wretched life
Such men must bear.

They're followed, watched and spied,
No liberty they know;
Some eye will watch them still,
No matter where they go.
When in green lanes I muse,
Alone, and hear birds sing,
God's pity then, say I,
On some poor king.

The Passing Show

By J. S. COWPER

The Technocrats, who are neither dead nor sleeping, though they have been silent of late, told us some time ago about the ready-made houses of exquisite design and completeness that ere long would be turned out by factories, much as Ford cars are. Well, they've arrived."

J. S. Cowper

That's justification enough for devoting a column of the Passing Show to telling about them. We shall hear much more about them in the future when competition and increased output make them cheap and plentiful.

Several of the new houses are under construction in the vicinity of New York City. They are the product of research by an associated group of firms known as American Houses, Incorporated, who have started with twelve different types and sizes of houses, ranging from a four-room house to sell at $3800 to a nine-roomed house with three baths to sell at about $10,000.

A finance scheme is part of the enterprise which does away with the need for first and second mortgage, enabling the purchaser to buy on a fifteen-year purchase basis—the four-roomed house at $38 a month and the nine-roomed house at $99 a month.

* * *

These prices won't sound attractive to western Canadian people, but a description of the houses supplied assure the prospective purchaser that they are quite remarkable dwellings in design, construction, equipment, decoration and finish.

They are constructed of panel sections of insulated design, composed of cement and asbestos, formed under tremendous pressure and bolted to a steel frame. Roofs are flat and used as sun terraces in summer-time—unless the purchaser wants to pay extra for a needless gable on his house. The roofs are tested to withstand a weight of twenty-five feet of snow and the house to resist hurricane pressure of 120 miles an hour. Every inside partition is removable in the event that the owner wishes to turn the house into one big room for any special occasion.

When operations are in full swing, the procedure will be as follows: the intending home owner will buy his lot, and make his own arrangements about sewers and connections for water, gas and electricity. He will select the type he wishes, and sign his contract. Within a day or two, his house will arrive complete in one mammoth truck, from one of the regional warehouses established every 500 miles throughout the country.

Two expert house-assemblers will arrive with the truck, which incidentally is their home and contains their living quarters; they will employ four or five local laborers in the vicinity, and will assemble the house, a process that is expected to take from two to four weeks. These houses contain no basements; under them will be excavations of only a few feet, with foundations deep enough to get below the frost line.

* * *

In some of their aspects, these houses are unlike anything known before. For example, they are all completely air-conditioned, with a guarantee that both temperature and humidity will be controlled within one degree, winter and summer. Because of their construction, they are free from attacks by insects, including termites. The windows are of the casement type, set in the corner of the room to provide greater free wall space, and operated from within by a small crank. Screens for summer and storm windows for winter are attached from the inside, and the windows can be opened with equal readiness whether the screens are in place or not.

The floor is made of compressed fireproof hardwood, which ought to be almost indestructible; the flat roof is intended to be used as a terrace. In order to economize on space, electric clocks are built into the walls of several rooms, as are a radio and a cigarette lighter, set in the wall of the living-room.

The heart of this house is the panel called the "moto-unit" into which is built all the operating machinery. One side of this panel is a wall of the kitchen, including air-conditioning equipment, electric refrigerator, hot-water heater, dish or cloth-washing machine, stove, kitchen cupboards, etc.; the other side forms the wall of the bathroom ,to which are attached wash-basin, bathtub, shower and toilet. Much of the economy in manufacture is based upon the fact that all this heavy machinery is assembled at one point, and designed and built as one unit.

* * *

Bought on rental terms, the monthly rent includes fire insurance and a life policy. In the event of the purchaser dying before completing payment, the house becomes part of his estate without further payment.

Of course the new type of house construction, should it become popular, is going to play havoc with the manufacturers of bricks and lumber, and with labor in the building trades.

Houses at the prices quoted are not low enough to meet the needs of the lower-income classes, but that aspect can be remedied if the public takes to the idea of the pre-fabricated house. The more pertinent problem is to so rearrange the social structure that the working classes will get the benefit of the reduced need for their labor in reduced working hours and readjustments of wages. The lucky inventor and the still luckier manufacturer cannot be the only ones to benefit by progress and invention, much less to benefit by the misery and the hopelessness of those who are dispossessed from employment.

With the Technocratic house and the other realizations of the Technocratic age comes the demand for the Technocratic working day. According to Howard Scott, Chief Technocrat, families could live on a $10,000 living standard today with no need for the breadwinner to work more than half a day for half the year, if Technocratic skill and Technocratic economics were put into effect.

Learn How To Cook Vegetables

By DOCTOR FRANK McCOY

A famous educator tells women that, if they will learn how to cook delicious meals, they will keep out of the divorce court. He considers bad cooking the greatest cause of divorce. Probably a great deal of truth is found in his statement. In learning how to cook, a housewife should spend some time in learning how to cook vegetables in appetizing varieties for vegetables are more easily ruined by cooking than most other foods. We read many jokes of poor biscuits, but how she cooks the vegetables is more important from the health standpoint.

Dr. F. McCoy

Cooked non-starchy vegetables should furnish the main bulk of the diet, yet they are usually the most neglected. Vegetables are especially valuable in maintaining good health for the following reasons: They contain a large quantity of food minerals. Because of their preponderance in alkaline-forming elements they may be classed as alkaline-forming foods and for this reason they prevent this condition. Vegetables also contain vitamins and they supply a source of bulk which is of the greatest aid in overcoming constipation. They may also be used in abundance by those who wish to reduce, as they are not fattening. Vegetables also help in reducing the cost of living as one may pick out many cheap but healthful vegetables.

The test to find out if you are a capable vegetable cook is this: Can you cook a plain vegetable in such a simple healthful way that you bring out all of its flavor and have people enjoy it when served with butter? Many of the non-starchy vegetables are easily prepared by cleansing, boiling in the least possible amount of water, and serving with butter. A correctly cooked vegetable has little or no water left when it is done. It has a tempting color, is tender but not mushy, and of a delicious flavor. One should also learn to steam and bake all sorts of vegetables. Many cooks pay so little attention to the vegetable dishes that they drown the vegetables in water, drain this water off down the sink and it carries with it many of the vital elements and flavors which should be retained. Any water remaining after vegetables have been cooked should be kept and used for soup.

We are always interested in unfamiliar things, but most of us expect them to come from Africa or other far away places. You can easily find a new source of interest right at home if you will begin to study the vegetables you know and try to find new ways of preparing them. Your own kitchen becomes an exciting field of experiment. You will find many attractive blends which you never knew before. Your success will lead you to try to cook vegetables like okra, eggplant, etc., which you have not used often and in time you will be able to make every meal interesting by fixing up a variety of vegetables in a variety of ways.

When you go to the store today study the vegetables displayed and see if you can find a new one. Or, if the fresh vegetables are scarce, take a look at the canned ones, and pick out a kind you have not been serving often. Take it home and fix up a surprise for dinner tonight.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

QUESTION: Miss F. writes: "I frequently see coddled eggs mentioned in your menus. How are they prepared?"

ANSWER: Coddled eggs are prepared by pouring boiling water over them while in the shells, and allowing to stand about eight minutes. When broken open, the egg should have a jelly-like consistency, but at the same time, should be so well coooked that there is not apparent albumen.

QUESTION—Mrs. F. H. asks: "Will you kindly inform me if it is all right to mix lemon and grapefruit juice? I use lemon juice in hot water every morning upon arising, but I find it more palatable to mix the two."

ANSWER—The juices of oranges, grapefruit and lemons may be mixed, as they contain essentially the same elements. The principal acid contained in them is citric acid. No other fruits should be combined in this way.

Horoscope

By MARY BLAKE

If you would avoid disappointment do not place too much dependence on anyone's apparent personality, for hidden traits, as well as unsuspected idiosyncracies, may reveal weaknesses of character you never suspected. It might be just as well to remember that friendship many times is like a weather vane.

Married and engaged couples, as well as those anxious to become members of the home-makers brigade, will do well to remember that true love is founded on mutual respect, and any action that might cause a forfeiture of it, probably will be very unfortunate.

If a woman, and March 29 is your birthday, your keen sense of the ridiculous and ability to see a funny side to almost every situation will enable you to face trials or tribulations successfully. Your happy disposition will attract many, make you popular, and be an asset in your business or social life. You should be very fortunate in love. You possibly will have a great deal of sunshine come into your life in a very unexpected manner.

The child born on March 29, may when it reaches its teens be more or less influenced by its associates, so care should be exercised to see that its associates are of the right sort.

If a man, and March 29 is your natal day, you may accomplish a great deal more if married than if single, as you probably require something of a deep emotional feeling to inspire your best efforts.

SIDE GLANCES—By George Clark

"I want you to meet Mr. Bailey. He croons or flies or something like that."

On This Date

A Day in Canadian History —o— By FRED WILLIAMS

On this date in 1832 the Legislature of Upper Canada passed a bill to incorporate Brockville as a police village.

The first Board of Police met in the court house early in April. It was an elected body, composed of the Hon. Honas Jones and Hon. Henry Sherwood representing the east ward and Samuel Pennock and John Murphy the west ward. One of the first acts of the board was to order the purchase of a fire engine at a cost of £125 and to provide for a volunteer fire brigade.

A number of by-laws were also adopted—some of them seem strange to us a century later, but they were necessary in those days. One provided that "if any person or persons shall fire, set off or discharge any gun, musket, pistol or squib or shall set fire to or throw any fireball within the limits of the said town, or shall play at any game of ball, or knock or throw any ball for amusements in any of the streets of the said town or on the public ground in front of the court house, he should be fined five shillings.

A fine of ten shillings was ordered to be paid by "any individual exposing his person while in bathing in front of the town between the hours of six in the morning and nine in the evening." (Wonder what they would have said about modern bathing suits!)

Short weight was made an offence punishable by fine and any baker who charged more than eight pence "for a four-pound loaf of wheaten bread" was to be haled before the magistrates and imprisoned, not fined. (Who says that price fixing is something new?)

A special penalty was provided for any individual who might challenge another to fight in the public streets or "found guilty of raising or making any disturbance in any place or places of public worship, or of using profane oaths, cursings, execrations, drunkenness, uncleanliness, or other scandalous actions."

These by-laws were the basis of the laws of other towns as they were given municipal status, so that it may well be claimed by Brockville that it made the by-laws of the Province of Upper Canada.

The Mail Bag

Owing to the number of letters received for this column and the desirability of publishing as many of them as possible, The Bulletin again calls attention to the fact that letters for the Mail Bag should be confined to 300 words or less to insure early publication.

Letters running beyond this length run the danger of being held out indefinitely—EDITOR.

FOR SOCIAL CREDIT

Editor Bulletin: Can you find space in your valuable paper to insert these few lines regarding Social Credit?

I have just read in tonight's paper that Reverand gentleman's letter and was much disappointed indeed to find he was so opposed to a scheme which I believe would be of great benefit to the country.

I wonder if this gentleman was suffering as much misery as some of the people are today would he publish such a letter? I think certainly not.

The poorer class people are in the majority and it is about time they had a little change for the better, to at least make life worth living.

This gentleman evidently does not know what it is to work hard to make a living, and does not know what it is to suffer misery and hardship.

Why not let the poorer class people have at least a little comfort. This gentleman is very selfish in my opinion.

MRS. J. KAUFFMAN,
Edmonton.

IS "WASHED UP"

Editor Bulletin: I see by The Bulletin that at least three government members have hinted towards a coalition government.

It is about the last stand that they can take for as far as the people are concerned they are all "washed up." Just imagine trying to force themselves onto the people for another term.

Social Credit is "poisoning the people" is it? Well, I'd call it a good anetdote to the arsenic we have been feed all these years. The government leaders have openly defied Social Credit and yet it is unanimously wished that Mr. Aberhart come to Edmonton and give his plan. Absolute folly I'd call it What good would it do to have Mr. Aberhart draw up a plan before election time? He'll draw up his plan with expert aid after election when he will have a hundred per cent. Social Credit legislation.

Mr. Johnston, the speaker of the house, is continually riding Social Credit principles, and yet he has nothing better to offer. We wonder why he lost his own nomination convention? I wonder why Mr. MacLachlan in his radio address quotes different figures than does Mr. Priestly?

At a local Labor meeting, Mr. W. Mentz expounded C.C.F. principles in telling us what is wrong with Social Credit. Mr. Mentz was billed as a Labor speaker, expounded C.C.F. and was brought out by Mr. R. Hennig the local member of the house. What a trinity? Does Mr. Hennig wish to draw votes in this way?

Mrs. W. W. Rogers will speak in our Lamont hall on Thursday 28, and I hope Mr. Mentz will be here to ask questions. I hope he reads the rest of the Bank Act before coming.

SOCIAL CREDIT SUPPORTER,
Lamont, Alberta.

SAYS LEGISLATORS HOODWINKED

Editor, Bulletin: Would you please allow me to submit a few words in reply to A. A. McKenzie of the Alberta Relief Commission on his reply to questions asked him before the agricultural house.

Mr. McKenzie stated that the men in relief camps on arriving at camp obtains two suits of underwear.

I am at present at camp 57, Mountain Park, and have only been given one suit the same as the rest of the men here.

Men have actually been told by camp officials to stay in bed on Sundays while their only suit of underwear is drying.

Also men are forced to bunk together. Mr. McKenzie says we are not forced to, all right, we ask Mr. McKenzie to send out more tents so we can sleep singly.

One other thing I might mention is that this camp has no recreation tent, so again Mr. McKenzie, we ask that this also be supplied us.

Hoping you allow these few lines for the benefit of this camp.

T. LYONS,
Chairman of Camp Committee, Camp 57,
Mountain Park, Alta.

The young couple sat on a bench in a secluded corner of the garden. In the distance could be heard the strains of an orchestra playing a dreamy waltz.

The young man nestled closer to the girl and slid his left hand around her slim waist.

"Muriel," he whispered, "do you know what it would mean if I were to buy you a beautiful diamond ring?"

The girl thought she knew, but instead of saying so, for she wanted the wonderful words to come from his own lips, she murmured: "Oh, Hughie, what would it mean?"

The young man removed his hand from her waist and got up from the bench.

"It would simply mean that I would have to give up my pipe and cigarettes and make my best suit last me for another couple of years."

Young Composer: "So you think my compositions will be played after Beethoven, Mozart, Tchaikovsky, and Rachmaninoff are forgotten?"

Critic: "Yes — but not until then."

HERE is a new low-priced car, the first to combine the efficiency of modern air-line design with true dignity and beauty.

However, despite its price, not everyone can own this Hupmobile. The care and skill that go into its construction forbid haste, and limit the number that can be built.*

May we suggest, if you are to be the "one" of the "one in a thousand," that you lose no time in telephoning us for a demonstration.

*The maximum production for 1935 of this Hupmobile is 25,000. Statistics show 25,000,000 persons can easily afford this car. That means that only one in a thousand will be fortunate enough to own it.

ONLY ONE IN A THOUSAND will be privileged to own this car

SILKEN SPINDLES

By Laura Lou Brookman

BEGIN HERE TODAY

STEVE MEYERS, who also works in the mill, asks Gale to marry him. She promises to give him an answer in a few days.

Gale goes skating, breaks through the ice and is rescued by BRIAN WESTMORE, whose father now dead, built the mill. Brian has come home after two years in Paris to enter the mill, Gale disappears before he learns her name.

Gale, at work in the mill, is summoned to the office of MISS GROVES, personnel director. Miss Groves makes it plain that if Gale will pass on information about her fellow employees it will be to her advantage. Gale refuses.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XXVI

FOR a week Gale went to the mill, expecting that every day would bring a dismissal slip. But nothing happened—nothing out of the ordinary. Willie O'Connor, trying to climb on the roof of the old Willis place, fell an sprained an ankle and had to hobble about on an improvised crutch. Josie Gridley bought a coat at Synder's late winter sale. It was green with brown fur and Josie displayed it proudly. The coat wasn't very warm but it was better than the one she had been wearing. And where could you find anything with as much style for $29.95?

Katie Shantz surprised everyone by going over to Crystal City one night and marrying the young man she had been going around with for three months. Both of them kept on working at the mill—Katie, bright-eyed and wearing a ring with a sparkling set in it that had been bought for "5 down." She and her young husband moved in with Katie's parents.

The other girls discussed Katie's romance, but Gale had little to say. She wasn't looking well. Her father noticed this and asked anxiously if she was eating enough. Gale said she was, though it was true she had little appetite. She had trouble going to sleep nights and, when she did, slept restlessly, tormented by dreams.

Miss Groves figured in these dreams frequently and so did Leota Boller. One night Gale thought that she was in a forest and had lost her way. It was growing darker every moment and she was becoming frightened. All at once she heard a fearful growling. She began to run, not knowing where she was going, but deeper and deeper into the woods. The growling continued and seemed to draw nearer. Gale looked back and saw a lion, running with its mouth open, its cruel teeth glittering. She ran faster and faster and all at once the trees disappeared and she was on a high cliff. She kept on running, the lion drawing closer. It was so close now that she could hear its breathing. She reached the edge of the cliff and, looking down, saw water churning against the rocks below. She turned and suddenly the lion was Miss Groves. Miss Groves was wearing her blue dress with white at her throat and about the wrists and she had a rose in her hair. She came forward, smiling, and said, "I love young people, my dear. And you are young. Beautifully young! That's why I'm going to push you over this cliff. That's why—"

* * *

Gale sat up in the darkness. She was cold and for an instant did not know where she was. Then she realized what had happened. It was a dream, of course—a silly, disgusting dream. She was here in her own room, in her own bed. There was no cliff and no Miss Groves.

The bed coverings lay in a twisted heap on the floor. Gale pulled them up, smoothed them into place and lay down again. But it was a long time before she could go to sleep. The dream had been ridiculous but it had been startlingly real. And though Miss Groves might not push her off a cliff she might, next day, do something equally perilous. She might take her job away from her.

"I mustn't keep thinking about it," Gale told herself. "It doesn't do any good."

She thought about it next day, though, when she saw Leota Boller in the cafeteria. Gale turned away quickly, hoping Leota had not seen her, but a minute later the other girl was beside her.

"Hello," Leota said. "Where've you been keeping yourself lately? I haven't seen you for a long time."

"Well, we'll have to get together some time," Leota went on brightly. "Some night after work, or maybe Sunday. Are you going to be busy next Sunday?"

"I'm afraid I am," Gale told her.

"Well, I'll see you later anyhow. Got to run along now—"

Leota drifted away. Josie Gridley set down her cup of coffee and looked at Gale. "I don't see why you have anything to do with a tattle-tale like her," Josie said.

"I don't want to."

The other girl's eyes narrowed wisely. "There's things going on around here," she said, "a lot of people would give a good deal to know about."

"What things?"

"I'll tell you some time, but not now. And don't think I don't know what I'm talking about!"

"You usually do," Gale assured her.

* * *

Suddenly Josie had a new interest. "Listen, Gale," she said, "do you think there'd be any way to fix over that old brown crepe of mine to make it look sort of different? I've worn it two winters, but the material's still good. I thought maybe I could get a piece of plaid and put a collar on it and maybe a belt. Do you think so?"

"I don't see why you couldn't," Gale told her.

"Well, will you help me with it? I'm not very good at cutting things out. I got a pattern magazine the other day and it's got some swell styles in it. If I come over tonight and bring the dress will you look at it and see what you think I could do with it?"

"Why, of course."

"Then I'll come. After dinner, around 8 o'clock."

"All right," Gale said. "I'll be looking for you.'

A girl in a green wool dress crossed the room and paused beside the table where the girls sat. She was a stenographer from the business office. She looked from one to the other and said, "Is one of you Gale Henderson?"

"I am," Gale told her.

The girl said, "When you've finished your lunch will you stop in the main office?"

Gale's heart missed a beat. She said then, in a low, level voice, "I've finished. I'll go right away."

She followed the girl across the cafeteria, wondering how many people were watching her. She wondered why it happened that she was going to get the notice at noon instead of at the end of the day's work. It didn't make any difference, of course. It was strange, now that it had happened, now that she knew she was to be discharged, that she didn't feel worse about it. She walked down the corridor beside the girl in green and thought, "Everything's going on, just the way it was—"

"In here," the other girl said opening a door. "If you'll sit down I'll tell Mr. Westmore you're here."

* * *

Gale turned, bewildered and opened her mouth to ask a question, but the girl had gone into a private office opening from the larger one. A moment later she was back.

"Mr. Westmore is ready to see you," she said. "You can go right in."

"But Mr. Westmore—"

"He's ready to see you," the girl repeated, and went to a desk before which she sat down.

Gale walked to the private office and pushed the door open. She saw Brian Westmore sitting at a desk inside, saw him get to his feet and come forward, smiling.

"Come on in," he said, eagerly. "Glad to see you—"

The door closed behind Gale. "I don't understand," she said slowly. "Was it you who sent for me?"

"Of course. It's been a long time since I've seen you and this was the only way I could think of to arrange it. I asked Miss Young to bring you here. Hope you don't mind breaking into your lunch hour—it seemed the simplest time." Suddenly he stopped. "Why, what in the world is the matter?" he asked.

Gale couldn't help it. There were tears in her eyes—tears of relief. She turned away, to hide them, groped in a pocket for her handkerchief. She said, "It's nothing—"

"But there is something! I wish you'd tell me what it is."

"It's nothing," Gale repeated, shaking her head. "I thought—when that girl said for me to come to the main office I thought I was going to be—fired. I'm just crying because I'm so—glad!"

The handkerchief was not in her pocket. Gale tried to blink the tears away, tried without success.

"Here," Brian said, "take this handkerchief." He gave her a large one from his coat pocket. "I was an idiot," he said contritely. "I didn't mean to frighten you. Why, I wouldn't do that for the world! Please don't feel that way about it. Please—" He put a hand on her shoulder, comforting, encouraging.

The outer door opened and Vicky Thatcher stood on the threshold.

A Substitute for a Steamer

Though you have no steamer, you can still steam a pudding. Grease a large pound can, either coffee or baking powder can. Put the batter into the can. Do not fill it to the top, as you must allow for expansion. Put the cover on tight. Place it in a kettle of boiling water. Steam the required length of time.

Minute Make-Ups

By V. V.

To eliminate the error of being caught after dark with your daytime lipstick in hand, buy both day and evening shades at one time and keep them in your purse. Then if you are caught under an electric light with a shade that is destined for daylight, you can immediately look more natural by applying the right shade.

Good Taste

By Francine Markel

"Is it proper for a prospective bride's sister to give her a shower?"

AMY M.

Answer—As those invited are supposed to bring gifts to the prospective bride, it is not in good taste for her family to send out the invitations. You had better let her friends attend to that. Of course, only intimate friends are asked.

Sea Scallops Win Oceans Of Approval

By MARY E. DAGUE

I have planned today's Lenten dinner around one of my favorite sea-food dishes, scallops. Incidentally, while the family will cheer for this meal, it might be a good day to ask in a few friends. With the scallops, done with spaghetti after a method which I shall hereinafter explain, serve turnip cups filled with buttered new peas, salad of cress with apple and orange slices, and pineapple sherbet.

Sister Mary

One pine scallops, ¼ pound spaghetti, ¼ cup sliced mushrooms, ¼ cup ham cut in matchlike pieces, 4 tablespoons butter, 1 tablespoon lemon juice, ¼ teaspoon salt, ⅛ teaspoon pepper, minced parsley.

Look over scallops and parboil in their own liquor in a shallow sauce pan for three minutes. Drain and saute in butter for five minutes. Arrange on a bed of spaghetti arranged as follows:

Put the ends of spaghetti into a kettle of boiling salted water. As ends soften submerge sticks until entire length is under water. Drain. Saute mushrooms and ham in butter for ten minutes. Add to cooked spaghetti with one-half cup bouillon. (Dissolve one bouillon cube in one-half cup boiling water.) Mix spaghetti mixture well and place in a shallow baking dish. Add scallops and pour over them the browned butter in which they were cooked, sprinkle with lemon juice, salt and pepper and minced parsley. Put in a hot oven for ten minutes to make very hot and serve at once.

CRESS AND APPLE SALAD

Peel onion and cut in thin slices. Cover with boiling water and let stand just 60 seconds. Drain and drop into ice water. Let stand 15 minutes and pat dry between paper towels. Marinate for one hour in lemon juice and oil. Pare and core apple and cut in half-inch slices, making rings. Peel orange and cut in half-inch slices. Put an orange slice on a bed of cress. Add a slice of onion and top with apple slice. Pour on French dressing and fill cavity of apple slice with mayonnaise.

PINEAPPLE SHERBET

One cup shredded pineapple, one cup sugar, one cup water, four tablespoons lemon juice, one teaspoon granulated gelatin, two egg whites.

Add gelatin to four tablespoons cold water and let stand over hot water until dissolved. Cook pineapple, sugar and water for ten minutes. Add gelatin and let stand until cool. Add lemon juice and turn into freezing tray or pack in four parts ice to one part salt. Partially freeze and add whites of eggs beaten until stiff. Beat thoroughly and finish freezing. Allow two or three hours for mixture to freeze.

Tomorrow's Menu

DRINKING HOT TEA IN SUMMER DOES NOT COOL THE DRINKER

It is often stated that a cup of hot tea will make a person cooler because of the contrast. Many persons testify that they actually feel cooler after drinking a hot liquid on a hot day. This is a dangerous fallacy, according to first-aid experts, who say that a drink of hot tea may bring on a heat-stroke if a person is already near that point. It is absurd to believe that taking more heat could make the body cooler.

Box Factory Burns

PRINCE ALBERTA, Sask., March 28.—Damage estimated at $20,000 was caused last night when fire destroyed the factory and equipment of the Prince Albert Box Factory Co. Ltd. Sparks from the plant's chimney were believed to have ignited the roof. A wind of blizzard strength was blowing at the time.

Canada Alert On Timber Issue

OTTAWA, March 28—Canada, it is understood, is keeping close watch on Soviet timber prices, and will take such action as appears necessary to safeguard her timber exports.

No word could be secured last night from government sources of a further protest to the United Kingdom government, but it is understood that the high commissioner for Canada in London has been instructed to keep close touch with the situation.

Just ended as a serial and read by thousands in the Edmonton Bulletin—It is coming Saturday to the Capital screen.

"David Copperfield"

The motion picture which has the whole world talking . . . Dicken's masterpiece made to live. All the tenderness, all the pathos, all the heart-gripping action of England's peerless story teller's epic brought to life in a motion picture that stands alone.

"David Copperfield"

Will go down in history as the greatest picture not only of 1935 but of all time!

Coming Saturday at 10:30 a.m.

See Tomorrow's issue of this paper for further particulars of this outstanding production which cost two million dollars.

NEW IDEAS ARE GLEANED FROM COOKING SCHOOL

What grandmother described as "wrinkles" when she revealed the reason why her tea biscuits were feather light, or why she hung the broom behind the door, have their place in the most modern of scientific home management. And for the thousand and more women who listened with concentrated attention to the very specific instructions of Miss Frances Thompson, lecturer and demonstrator in scientific cooking for the Canadian School of Home Science at the classes sponsored by The Edmonton Bulletin and being conducted this week at the Empire Theatre, fell many little hints that must make work lighter and straighten out problems of economic management. For the second lecture and demonstration given on Wednesday afternoon by Miss Thompson every seat in the specious Empire theatre was filled.

One thing suggested by Miss Thompson as she added a dash of sugar to "mealy" pastry was the fact that a sweet filling for a pie should require sweetened pastry—also she reminded her feminine listeners that men like a dessert which is not too sweet and rich, and recommended, thus, a grapefruit and orange pie filling.

"A PENNY SAVED"

Economy in purchasing does not always mean pennies saved, she commented, and grade A eggs are standard size, while smaller eggs have less food value, if they are slightly cheaper. Also the best brands of food ingredients, such as Magic Baking Powder, call for less of the ingredient. And, if grandmother had her "wrinkles," still she was obliged to use a washboard in laundering—which was certainly hard on the back and worse for the clothes—while the modern housewife can sprinkle a bit of Rinso on a stain, let it soak and, like magic, her linens are white as snow

And so on with many happy suggestions, Miss Thompson entertained her large audience, at the same time, instructing them. There was an informality between audience and speaker which opened the way for questions and at times argument and discussion between the brilliant and proved scientist and the die-hard traditionalists.

As much interest was taken in the demonstration of the table service as was shown in the practical work carried on in the complete and modern General Electric kitchen.

Miss Thompson pointed out that it is smart to have your crystal and dishes in the same pattern as your Community Plate silver. The dining room scene was most attractive, with handsome furnishings from Campbell's Furniture Limited.

Fur coats from Robinson's were modelled and included a grey lapin trotteur and a full back rat coat.

LUCKY NUMBERS

Concluding the afternoon a most interesting feature was the draw made for prizes, with twelve complete bags of the products used during the afternoon won by the following: Mrs. L. J. Ropert, Mrs. L. Dunham, Mrs. E. Squarock, Mrs. W. H. Wells, Mrs. E. Compton, Mrs. Alec Stewart, Miss M. Turner, Miss Bertha Shaw, Mrs. Chandler, Mrs. H. Burden, Miss Mae Fee and Mrs. B. M. Booth.

The dishes made during the afternoon were drawn for and won by Mrs. Angus Park, flowers donated by Walter Ramsay Limited, were won by Mrs. C. Villeneuve, Miss Dorothea Rutherford, and Mrs. G. D. Davis and six Community Plate cheese servers were presented to Mrs. J. L. Kencke, Miss Gladys Parks, Miss Edythe Lyons, Mrs. D. Gordon, Mrs. J. M. Diamond and Miss Ruth Downey.

Miss Thompson's final lecture and demonstration will be given in the Empire theatre on Thursday evening commencing at 8:30 o'clock when the grand prizes will be given away.

GLASS MAKING TO BE SHOWN AT LIBRARIES

The story lady will have slides to illustrate Methods of Glass Making, and will also tell the story of a boy hero in a train wreck. This story is called "Below the Bend." The hours are 4:30 on Friday in the Edmonton library, and 10:30 on Saturday in the Strathcona library.

"Y" Carries On Despite Its Deficit

Reports from ten committees were heard and discussed at the regular monthly meeting of the Board of Directors of the Y. W. C. A. Wednesday. The date of the annual meeting and dinner was set for Friday, April 26.

The monthly deficit was somewhat discouraging, but the work in each department goes on bravely; 6643 persons were served in the Cafeteria, 159 persons registered during the month; 36 girls were placed in positions through the social service department, which includes Traveller's Aid, and 202 trains were met and 62 persons assisted in numerous ways. There are 107 registered for lessons in the various new classes at the swimming Pool, not including all who come in the plunge hours. The classes in the gymnasium are enjoying the interesting prospect of a demonstration and pageant to take place May 10. The 4:30 Vesper services have had an average attendance of 37 and the messages brought by Miss F. Torrance, Mrs. W. J. Melrose, Mrs. K. A. Clark, and Mrs. J. B. Maclennan, have been most interesting and helpful. A letter was read from the foreign Y. W. C. A. secretary, Miss Nell Elliott of Hong Kong, China. Letters were read from the National executive secretary in Toronto in answer to inquiries regarding expanding our local work.

Committees were appointed to look after the Y. W. C. A. cottage at Seba and the "Tag Day" which will be June 1.

Those present were: Mrs. F. V. Hollands, president; Mrs. W. T. Whitelaw, secretary; Mrs. P. S. Bailey, Mrs. E. T. Bishop, Mrs. F. G. Forster, Mrs. A. S. Tuttle, Mrs. T. H. Whitelaw, Mrs. M. C. McCannel, Mrs. W. H. Sterne, Mrs. H. W. Hewetson, Mrs. G. E. Story, Mrs. R. B. Woodsworth, Mrs. John Lines, Mrs. F. A. Keillor, Mrs. J. Frazer-Smith, Mrs. A. W. Henry, Mrs. Thornton Graham, Mrs. J. the social round . . . .

LONDON, March 28.—The pageantry of two royal courts Thursday and Friday nights will inaugurate—colorfully, if unofficially—the Silver Jubilee Year.

Excited matrons and debutantes will curtsy before the King and Queen at Buckingham Palace in this prelude to the festivities of the King's 25th anniversary as Britain's ruler.

The official jubilee courts will be held June 25 and 26, and the added historic importance attached to them has already started an inflow of applications.

Those to be presented tonight and Friday began preparing for their great moment weeks ago. Many English debutantes have been going to schools for higher instruction on how to walk in gown and train, and how to bow gracefully in making obeisance to the King.

At one time those attending the royal courts were on public display as they waited in the Mall, in their automobiles, for the gates of the palace to open. Those who were early in line had to undergo the prying eyes of spectators and no few ribald remarks. That has been changed, however, to let the cars come into the large palace quadrangle, those who are in the rear overflowing into the outer forecourt.

First in have first choice of the relatively small number of seats, and so all strive to be early. Sharp at 9:30 p.m., the King and Queen enter the throne room and the line starts moving past.

In the lead are members of the diplomatic corps, and their wives. The women of the diplomatic circle take seats provided for them after they curtsy before the King and Queen, while the ambassadors, ministers and their staffs stand around behind and near those seats. The fortunate debutantes and matrons follow.

One of the major interests of the Alumni Association of the University of Alberta is support of the School for the Unemployed, and it is certainly an all absorbing interest, with registrations increased each year, and limited means with which to keep up the work. The fact that the enterprise has had such far reaching results in offering technical training to many, advanced courses in English and philosophy and economics to those with others, and for some providing the rudimentary knowledge of language and expression is encouragement to those who devote their time to the welfare of the school. This week a telephone bridge has been arranged and a number of hostesses are entertaining in their homes for the work of the school. A few among them include: Mrs. F. C. Butterworth, Mrs. I. F. Morrison, Mrs. Strickland, Mrs. Haynes, Mrs. Cameron, Mrs. G. B. Taylor, Mrs. G. Conquest, Mrs. A. Cook, Miss M. Crang, Mrs. R. McNaught, Miss Jean Bulyea, Miss Mae Massie, Miss Mona MacLeod, Miss Esther Miller, Mrs. W. C. Whiteside, Mrs. M. B. McColl, Mrs. Russell Love, Miss Dorothy Argue, Miss Gladys Fry, Mrs. R. V. Clark and Mr. Rookwood.

Mr. and Mrs. S. Wells, who celebrated their seventeenth wedding anniversary recently, were honored at a surprise party held in the Emery Hall recently by a number of their friends. A mock wedding in which Mrs. Clark was the bride, Mrs. Ryerson the bridegroom and Mrs. Wright the minister, caused much fun, and the presentation of a gift to Mr. and Mrs. Wells was made on behalf of those present. Whist was also arranged, prizes going to Mrs. Horrocks and Mr. Shultz. Those present with the guests of honor were Mr. and Mrs. Prior, Mr. and Mrs. Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Horrocks, Mr. and Mrs. Shultz, Mr. and Mrs. Ferrier, Mrs. Clark, Mr. and Mrs. Bennett, Mr. and Mrs. Edgerton, Mr. and Mrs. McVee, Mr. and Mrs. Seth, Mr. and Mrs. Poole, Miss Kelly, Miss Kenefick, Miss Smith, Miss Crawford, Mrs. Romeral, Mrs. Dove, Mrs. Ryerse, Mrs. Johnstone, Mrs. McCulloch, Mrs. Crawford, Mr. King, Mr. Bowcott, Mr. Lynes, Mr. Evans, Mr. Kelly, Mr. Wright. Those responsible for arranging the affair were Mrs. Smith, Mrs. Clark and Mrs. Prior.

Very delightful and spring-like was the party at which the Westward Ho! Chapter, I.O.D.E., entertained for the blind of the city in the Y.W.C.A. Tuesday evening. Mrs. Kinnear, Municipal blind convener, and Mrs. Thomas W. Hamilton, regent of the chapter, received the guests. On the committee in charge were Mrs. Wm. Calder, Mrs. Robt. Lee, and Mrs. Bruce Flavin. Entertainment was provided by Mrs. Joe Barrett, the Misses Crowe, Mrs. C. Holtzman, Messrs. Robt. and Jim Kidney and Rhys Thomas and Walter Sorenson. Mrs. Charles Hornsby played for community singing, and later games were enjoyed. Mr. Hornsby expressed appreciation to the chapter, and Mr. E. McDougall, Mr. Bruce Flavin and Miss Calder conveyed those living some distance away home by motor. The room was attractively decorated in pastel shades, and the supper table was done in pale pink candles and cream sweet peas. Mr. Bruce Flavin provided cigarettes for the guests.

Arranged by the National and British Empire Disabled Ex-Servicemens Women's Association a most successful dance was held in the Emery Hall this week, when prizes won at the affair were presented by Col. George B. McLeod to Mrs. K. Sandis, Mrs. Horrocks, Mrs. Kinsman, Mr. Moignan. Miss Margaret Crang, honorary president of the W.A., spoke encouragingly to the members. Those in charge of arrangements included Mrs. Prior, Mrs. Wells, Mrs. Lawrence, Mrs. Romevil, Mrs. Raison, Mrs. Smith and Mrs. Clark.

LODGE HONORS RECENT BRIDE

At the regular meeting of Queen of Alberta, L.O.B.A. held in the Eastwood community hall on Tuesday evening a pleasing event was the presentation made to Mrs. Kenneth Bergie, a recent bride, from the officers and members. Arrangements were also made to celebrate the 7th anniversary of the lodge by holding a court whist after the meeting on Tuesday evening, April 2. Members from the two other lodges will be guests.

Social Leader Will Arrive From Saskatoon

MRS. J. D. GUNN

Edmonton will next month welcome Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Gunn from Saskatoon, Mr. Gunn having been transferred here as manager of the National Trust Company.

Mrs. Gunn will be a charming addition to Edmonton's social set. She is widely interested in various clubs and organizations and has an envied reputation as a delightful hostess. Her attractive home in Idywyld, Saskatoon, has been the scene of scores of most original and enjoyable functions. She has been an enthusiastic executive member of prominent societies including Saskatoon Riverside Country Club, Little Theatre Club, Saskatoon Badminton Club, Girl Guide Association, Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire, and Women's' Canadian Club. She has been actively interested in Anglican church organizations and has been a helpful patroness of the Business and Professional Women's Club.

Mrs. Gunn will be extended many adieux courtesies by her Saskatoon friends prior to her departure for Edmonton.

EARLY SCHOOL DAYS RECALLED

Mr. James Ross, son of the late Mr. Donald Ross, addressed the children of the Donald Ross school Monday afternoon, vividly portraying the joys and sorrows of the pupils who attended Edmonton's first school half a century ago.

Others who contributed to an excellent program were Phyllis and Connie Templeman, Doreen Hardy, Eleanor Kumitch, Marjorie Smith, Billy Mitchell, Harry Harris, choruses from Rooms IV and V, and Grades VII and VIII boys in a tumbling exhibition.

Community Leagues

WESTMOUNT

On Friday, March 29, at 8:15 o'clock, under the auspices of the Westmount Community League and in their hall "The Merrymakers" will put on a concert and dance.

LOCAL COUNCIL CONSIDERS RESOLUTIONS

From the women of Canada, representative of the club life and interests of thousands across the Dominion, resolutions of wide import were submitted to the meeting of the National Council of Women executive in Montreal at their February meeting and were forthwith compiled and sent out again to each of the Local Councils in Canada to be considered by their members. On Thursday afternoon the list of resolutions was discussed at the meeting of the Edmonton Council, and included matters such as tax exemption for widows, as proposed amendment to the Government of Canada in the Income Tax Act; the strict observance of Remembrance Day; the establishment of a National Bureau of Education, and the individuality of married women in registering for elections.

National officers will be elected at the annual meeting in June, and westerners take their place among the contestants. Dr. Mildred Newell of Edmonton, who for two years has been national convener of health, is elected by acclamation to continue in office. Dr. Geneva Misener of Edmonton, at present the national convener of education, and Mrs. H. J. Akitt of Calgary will contest office. Mrs. E. L. Hill, who for five years has been convener of the committee on economics and taxation will run for office with Miss Clara Maxwell of New Westminster and Miss Lottie O'Boyle, of Ottawa. Mrs. Helen Gregory of McGill is again convener of the committee on laws effecting women and children, and Mrs. George Bell of Regina holds by acclamation the office as convener of National Resources, while Miss Eva T. McIvor of Winnipeg is convener of trades and professions, by acclamation.

PRIZES ARE AWARDED FOR PUBLIC SPEAKING

Students of the Separate Commercial high school captured the Margaret Duggan cup in the closely contested oratory competition at the Separate high school auditorium Friday evening, under the auspices of the Catholic Women's League.

Those winning honors for their school included Miss Betty O'Brien, speaking on "Catholic Action"; Miss Ivy Lawrence speaking on "The Aeroplane and the North" and Miss Marion Chesser whose subject was "Mexico."

Prizes of $5 were awarded for the best speaker from each school competing, and were won by Miss Betty O'Brien, for the Commercial High, Miss Mernie Graham, from St. Mary's, and Orest Demko from St. Joseph's Boys' high school.

Mrs. J. J. Duggan, past national president, presented the prizes to the winners, and Mrs. Frank Conray spoke briefly on behalf of the league.

Monsignor L. Nelligan congratulated the winners, speaking on behalf of Archbishop H. J. O'Leary.

During the evening, Rev. Father Leo Green was a vocal soloist, and also directed the girls of the Separate high in choruses. The St. Joseph's boys' high school orchestra contributed selections under the direction of Rev. Father L. C. Walravens.

Judges of the oratory were Rev. Brother Memoriam, Miss Eva Dillon and Mr. J. J. LeBlanc.

Weddings

AITKEN—HARRISON

Mr. and Mrs. John Harrison announce the marriage of their daughter Mary Annie to Mr. William Aitken of Hinton, Alberta. The ceremony took place at the First Presbyterian church, Saturday, March 23, at 7:30 p.m., the Rev. Andrew Osborne officiating.

The bride was beautifully gowned in white satin and lace with veil to match, and she carried a bouquet of sunburst roses. The bridesmaid, Miss Edna Painter and Miss Phyllis Lane were charmingly dressed in pink and rose moire taffeta and carried bouquets of red and white carnations.

After the ceremony a reception was held at the R.A.O.B. Hall on 118 avenue, the hall gaily decorated in white and pink crepe paper and bells. The wedding cake centered the table surrounded by white and red carnations and red roses. The many beautiful gifts presented to the bride and groom were on display.

A buffet supper was served by Mrs. Gant, Miss Phyllis Lane, Miss Edna Painter, Miss Flora McIntosh and Miss Betty Nichols.

The bride and bridegroom will leave shortly for Hinton where they will make their home.

Mrs. Crosby of Wolseley, Saskatchewan, formerly Miss Bean, R.N., of Edmonton, is in Edmonton until Monday, the guest of Miss Blanche Emerson, the LeMarchand Mansions.

Books Of The Moment Are Ably Reviewed

UNDERSTANDING of the underlying principles of cosmic consciousness has made such books as "The Forty Days of Musa Dagh" and "Father Abraham" each great in their way. Without that deep sense of the undercurrents of the human race, Few authors are able to write an interesting story. In an extended and decidedly fascinating review of the much-talked of Franz Werfer noval, Katherine Hale, critic and lecturer-poet, drew upon her own knowledge and understanding of things literary to extract the fullest interest from the story, when she addressed an audience in the Macdonald hotel Wednesday afternoon. Her lecture on books was the second in a series which will include "the story of the Film; its trends, its great directors, and certain stars" Saturday afternoon at three o'clock in the Macdonald, and "When Is Poetry Modern? With Readings," Monday afternoon.

"Forty Days," in giving, perhaps more faithfully than any history has done, the story of Turkish persecution of the Armenians, has as its theme the age-old conflict resultant from race and religious hatred. Under the terrific pressure of an enforced siege of forty days, a group of people change tremendously, and the fact that the withering of the spirit, the dehumanizing of the personality is more vital and more hopeless than any massacre of the body, is brought out.

To the critic, this book suggested, in the search of the human spirit for some unity with the forces of the universe, Dr. Hardy's greatly discussed "Father Abraham."

The savage Orientalism and coarseness of the time of which he writes are faithfully reproduced by the author . . . and how could he otherwise have brought to life the epoch in which Abraham lived? Here, too, is a story of race hatred, and the record of a man's search for God. Always, when Abraham created a world it smashed, and on this series of failures he built his understanding.

OLD-FASHIONED WOOD CUT

Thornton Wilder's "Heaven's My Destination" is like an old-fashioned wood cut, in its story of the American salesman, the Don Quiote of the Baptist church. It points out, perhaps, that no one wants to be improved except by an amusing person, and while there is humor in the telling there is tragedy in the figure. "Such Is My Beloved" is another delicate portrait.

"Morton's In the Steps of the Master" is written almost in the Guide Book, or Journalistic style, but there are certain magnificent descriptions, and the difference between the law and the prophets is indicated.

J. B. Priestley's "English Journey" takes us away from the Merrie England of Robinhood, to an England of the newspaper front page, the underdog, the revolutionary. Swinterton "Georgian Scene" is a fitting Jubilee year publication, for it is a fair minded and just English criticism of literature of the last 25 years. While Alexander Woolcutt supplies an appetizing dessert in his vignettes of American life, "While Rome Burns", and Dorothy Parker is the impertenant flower of American literature, using the short, stacatto American idiom most successfully. Miss Hale closed with a Dorothy Parker reading, "The Sexes."

SCOTTISH MUSIC TO BE HEARD AT KNOX CHURCH

From the land of the heather comes much delightful music and the program to be presented by the Knox Church Choir in the church on Friday evening will include numbers of the plaintive old airs, Scottish lullabies, the stirring national music and many rollicking old songs. This is the annual concert arranged by the choir, and solo work will vary the choral arrangements. There will be two parts to the program which is as follows:

Part song, "Draw the Sword, Scotland," Planche; organ solo, "Scottish Airs," air by W.M.M., Mr. W. M. Mawer; song, "Bonnie Wee Thing," Archer, Mrs. R. G. Thomlinson;; part song, "Wi' a Hundred Pipers," Nairn; song, "The Bonny Blue 'Kerchief," Barnicott, Mr. Jas. Richardson; violin solo, "Clach-Na-Cuddin," M. Murdoch, Master Billy Thorburn, Winnipeg; trio, "The Flowers o' the Forest, air by Lambeth, Mrs. H. Kyle, Mrs. A. J. H. Powell, Mrs. J. W. Martins; part song, "Bonnie Banks o' Loch Lomond," Roddie.

Part II: Song, "The Scottish Blue Bells," Barker, Mrs. F. G. Sutherland; part song, "Land o' the Leal," Thompson; song, "McGregor's Gathering," Scott, Mr. Frank Williams; male quartette, "Scots Wha Hae," Burns, Messrs. J. W. Martins, J. Richardson, R. Bibby, R. Huggett; part son, "Imphm," Moddie; song, Flora MacDonald's Lament," Gow, Miss Enid Griffith; violin solo, "The Auld Scotch Sangs," Murdoch, Master Billy Thorburn; part song, "We're a' Noddin'," West; Auld Lang Syne; God save the King.

ARMY, NAVY VETERANS' L. A. PLANS DANCE

At the fortnightly meeting of the L. A. to the Army and Navy Veterans the relief committee reported several needy cases attended. The hospital and sick committee reported several sick visits paid. The social committee have arranged to hold a telephone whist drive at the homes of Mrs. Lane and Mrs. Bissett on Thursday evening, April 11. Later in April a dance will be held in Watkins' Academy, at which a door prize of $5.00 will be awarded.

No other dyes give such COLOR BEAUTY

WOMEN who are experienced in home-dyeing, and professional dyers, too, often remark about the superior color beauty of Diamond Dyes. "Diamond colors are so true," they say. "There are never any off-casts or dull, dead tones. All live, lustrous color, just like new material, with no spotting or streaking." The reason for this is that Diamond Dyes actually contain a greater amount of the finest aniline coloring. For permanent dark colors, by boiling, use Diamond Dyes. For light shades, without boiling, use the beautiful new Diamond Tints. All drug stores, 15c.

Being An Old Maid Makes You Family Goat

"The greatest objection to being an old maid is that it automatically makes you the family goat," said a spinster to me the other day. "Why this should be so, I do not know. It just is. Logically it would seem that her parents and her married sisters and brothers, with their husbands and wives and homes and children and their fuller lives, would be filled with sympathy for her lonely estate and cherish her, but such is not the case. She is always the one who is offered up as a sacrifice on the family altar and expected to do all the dirty chores.

Dorothy Dix

"Curious as it may seem in this day of feminine emancipation and competent business women, the old maid is without standing and without honor in her own home and among her own people. In some big business office she may be "our competent Miss Smith," who daily handles affairs involving hundreds of thousands of dollars, but because she isn't married her mother regards her as a moron who hasn't enough sense to make a sponge cake and who is so lacking in judgment that she has to be told to put on her rubbers if it is raining, and when to go to bed.

"As long as a woman is single, her parents treat her as a child even if she is 50 years old and, like Lady Kew's daughter, knows all there is to tell. They still feel that they have a right to boss her, to supervise her conduct, to pick out her friends, to read her letters and listen in on the telephone. But they wouldn't dream of trying to exercise such authority over their married daughters.

"They treat her opinions as if they had emanated from a 6-year-old child who wasn't very bright at that, but they listen with awe to the views of any silly, hen-brained daughter if she has acquired a husband. Apparently they consider that there is some magic in the marriage ceremony that endows a girl with wisdom that the spinster never has.

"Her family never concedes the unmarried daughter the right to lead her own life in her own way and enjoy some independence. Father and Mother are delighted to have Mary go off with some strange man they scarcely know by sight and set up housekeeping with him, but if Sally, who has a woman's natural inborn craving for her own home, where she can express her own taste and have her own things and do as she darn pleases, wants to take a little apartment they regard it as nothing less than a scandal and along with her brothers and sisters fight it tooth and nail.

"Of course, the old maid just naturally falls heir to Mother and Father when they get old and cranky. There is never any argument about whose duty it is to take care of them. It is always the unmarried daughter's. The married children have a perfect alibi. Their houses are filled with their own children.

"Nor does the old maid get the poor reward of appreciation from her parents for sacrificing herself to them. Somehow they regard her as a failure for not having married. Mother will brag about the married daughters and their children and their houses and then she will say apologetically that she doesn't know why it was that poor Sally never married. She was always a good girl, but she guesses she was never attractive to men. She will say this even when she knows that Sally has given up marriage to a fine man in order to take care of her and father.

"And Mother will make more ado over John's sending her a $50 check at Christmas than she will over Sally's supporting her the whole year. She will be forever talking about how attentive her married children are who pay her occasional week-end visits, but she will apparently never observe the devotion of the daughter who has made a slave of herself to her.

"And money. You have to be married to have a right to your own pocketbook. If you are single, it belongs to the family. The married sisters and brothers don't ask each other for loans or for money to pay bills or buy a new car. They recognize that each needs all that he has for himself. But let any member of the family get in trouble, or any child need to have its teeth straightened, or any boy and girl want to go off to college and they hold up the old maid for the price.

"So it is no cinch to be an old maid. You are the family victim and you might just as well go along and marry and have troubles of your own."

—DOROTHY DIX.

What's What

Question—Your answers to others in our favorite paper have helped me many times, so I am now seeking information for myself and others. We are a group of seven men and five girls. We have organized a club and intend to give parties and outings. Our main idea is for having wholesome fun. We would like you to suggest a suitable name, something rather dignified, as a Greek or Latin name, perhaps pertaining to our number, twelve, or to our main idea, "fun." Any help you give us will be greatly apprecaited.

RALPH AND ESTELLE.

Answer—Use only the Greek letter equivalents of the English initials, for example, in twelve entertainers—the T and E would become the Greek letter title Tau Epsilon of Epsilon Tau, or Theta Epsilon Tau (The Entertaining Twelve).

Question—Will you please help us to plan the celebration of our first wedding anniversary? Our income is small and won't allow a very elaborate affair. Most of the guests will be church members. There will be 25 or 30 of them.

MR. AND MRS. R.

Answer—Fortunately for you the first anniversary (the paper wedding) is most informal and inexpensive. All possible decorations and accessories are of paper—paper roses, paper napkins, etc. Gifts are likely to be of paper or of cardboard. Serve afternoon tea, or, if it is evening, have a musical kaffee klatch on the same easy, pass-around plan.

A BEDTIME STORY

Story by HAL. COCHRAN Pictures by GEORGE SCARBO

The Hindu said, "My second trick is one that I think very slick, but I can do it only if you Tinies help me out.

"You'll have to do just as I say. Remember, this is all in play. Each one of you must join right in and be a real good scout."

"Well, I am game," said Dotty. "Gee, I know the Hindu won't hurt me. Right now I am a chick, but he has promised I will change.

"Let's all agree that we will mind. Then we are very sure to find out what the second trick is. I'll just bet it will be strange."

• • •

Then Scouty loudly cried, "Now, wait! I want to hear the Hindu state that he will make us tots again. Then I'll do anything.

"Just think! If he should run away, like this we'd always have to stay. I hope when this trick's over, he will feel he's had his fling."

"I promise," said the small Hindu, "that I will not hurt one of you. I also promise that you'll soon be Tinymites again.

"Now, all stand close together, please, so I can do my trick with ease. I have a piece of white cloth, here, that I use now and then."

• • •

The Tinies huddled in a bunch, as Duncy said, "I have a hunch he's going to wave that cloth o'er us. Yes, sir! Just look! I'm right."

The cloth was wafted through the air, and then the Tinies got a scare. A coop appeared and they were in it. Goodness, what a sight.

The giant laughed and said, "What fun! Just see what our wee friend has done. But this is only half of the smart trick he's doing now.

"I'll hold the coop up in the air. I'm sure you Tinies will not scare. Be patient, tots, and we will get you out of there, somehow."

Cecilia Needs No Massaging To Keep Weight Down

By GLADYS GLAD
"America's Most Famous Beauty"

Out in Hollywood, I am told, there is always much ado amongst the motion picture moguls because the great Garbo generally loses weight during picture production. In the latest Garbo opus, however, that new star, Cecilia Parker, lost a pound more than Garbo. Not that she was trying to out-Garbo Garbo. But just because the strenuous work had that effect on her.

It is really rather difficult for the average star to keep her figure lines perfect. But most stars recognize the value of massage for breaking up fatty tissues, while the average woman doesn't. Properly administered massage is most effective in keeping figures from bulging in the wrong places. Massaging generally takes off inches, rather than pounds. It breaks up fatty tissues locally, rather than affecting general reduction. And when it breaks up the fatty tissues, it rouses the circulation, enabling the blood to carry away the residue.

Self-administered massage, of course, is seldom, if ever, as effective as the massage administered by a competent masseuse. In the first place, the massaging must be done scientifically, with full knowledge of muscle and nerve locations. And in the second place, if improperly done, the massaging may prove either ineffective or injurious.

No woman, however, should depend upon massaging alone for reduction. For diet and exercise count as well. A starvation diet, of course, really isn't necessary at all. But sensible restrictions should be placed upon the daily diet. Exercise is also necessary to keep the body firm and to assist in the reduction. There are a number of excellent reducing exercises in my "New Figure" booklet. And the following is also most effective for general reduction:

Starting from a standing position, reach down and touch the floor with one hand, stretching out the opposite arm and leg. Repeat on the opposite side. This reduces hips, and increases suppleness and balance.

CECILIA PARKER

ANSWERS TO QUERIES

Reducing

Mrs. L. M.: It is indeed possible to reduce the bust, hips, waist and thighs even after childbirth. Full information on accomplishing such weight reduction is contained in my "New Figure" booklet.

Constipation

Theresa: The constipation may be the cause of your skin blemishes. Drink eight to ten glasses of water daily. Eat plenty of fresh fruits and vegetables. And get plenty of exercise and fresh air each day.

Complexion

Louise: I regret that it would be impossible for me to print my method of clearing the skin of blackheads, pimples and enlarged pores in this brief space. However, the process is fully outlined in my "Beauty Culture" booklet.

Brown Spots

Worried: To eradicate brown spots, so-called "liver spots" apply a solution of hyposulphite of soda and water, using one part of the chemical to eight parts of water.

Oily Hair

Carol: Frequent shampoos are advisable for excessively oily hair. Lemon rinses will assist in removing the excess oil. Also a teaspoon of baking soda added to the last rinse after a shampoo, will help to make the hair fluffy.

GLADYS GLAD.

EDITOR'S NOTE: To obtain Miss Glad's pamphlets on "The New Figure" and "Beauty Culture" write, care of Edmonton Bulletin, enclosing a self-addressed envelope stamped with a three-cent stamp, and ten cents in coin for each, to cover cost of printing and handling.

THE GUMPS — Right on The Chin — By Smith

WHEN IN-LAWS GET TOGETHER— THOSE LOVING RELATIVES, THE GUMPS AND DE STROSSES ARE HAVING A LITTLE FAMILY DINNER AT BIM'S HOUSE TONIGHT— JUST NOW MAMA IS MEETING THE FIRST OF HER GUESTS AT THE DOOR—
3-28
THAT CERTAINLY WAS A NICE POLITE GREETING YOU GAVE ME WHEN I PASSED YOU ON THE STREET AND SAID GOOD MORNING TO YOU YESTERDAY—
OH- I WAS JUST RIBBING YOU A LITTLE- IT WAS ALL IN THE SPIRIT OF FUN-
WELL- I'M NOT IN THE HABIT OF BEING MADE FUN OF IN PUBLIC- IT CERTAINLY DOESN'T SPEAK VERY WELL FOR YOUR BRINGING UP- THAT YOU'D BE SO RUDE AS TO INSULT A LADY ON THE STREET- WHAT SORT OF REARING DID YOU HAVE ANYHOW ?
THE VERY BEST- YOU KNOW WHAT THEY SAY- IT TAKES THREE GENERATIONS TO MAKE A GENTLEMAN-IN THAT CASE- YOUR GRAND CHILDREN WILL BE ALL RIGHT-

FAIR WAGES PLAN IN SOME RELIEF CAMPS

Experiment is Considered Admits Minister in Legislature

Consideration is being given by the provincial government to paying of fair wages in some works camps for part of the season, Hon. Hugh W. Allen, minister of municipal affairs and minister in charge of relief declared during discussion of relief estimates in the legislature on Wednesday.

The matter was brought up by Chris Pattinson, Labor, Edson, who asked how much it cost the government to keep those men in camps, who, in addition to their board and clothing, were given a gratuity of 20 cents a day. The Minister replied the per day cost was $1.25.

Pressed by Mr. Pattinson, he said the experiment of work-at-wages was under consideration.

ESTIMATE ITEMS

Among the items included in the estimates are $1,435,800 for direct relief to cities, a decrease of $170,200 over the previous year; $537,600 for direct relief in improvement districts; $27,750 for direct relief in towns, villages and Red Deer and Wetaskiwin; $75,000 for direct relief to provincial transients; $50,000 for Dominion relief camps; $93,650 for administration of the relief commission; $247,450 for provincial hostels for single men; $154,790 for provincial work camps; $35,330 for agricultural relief and investigations; $25,000 for moving settlers; $80,000 for the relief settlement plan; $250,000 for seed grain advances; $100,000 for fodder advances; $25,000 for free freight, feed and seed and $4,500 for freight on cattle returning from feeding areas.

SHARING COSTS

L. A. Giroux, Liberal, Grouard, asked if the province was asking that relief be shared on a 50-50 basis as Ontario and Quebec had done. He declared that cities had reached their limit in relief and pointed out that this year 30 per cent of Edmonton homes were liable to seizure through taxation. Cities had reached their limit in taxation and the people could not pay any more. The situation was emergent and something had to be done.

Hon. George Hoadley replied that if the province carried 50 per cent of the relief burden, the Dominion would be called upon to bear a larger share of the burden and the province did not have the wealth to back up greater assistance from the Dominion.

Fred J. White, provincial Labor leader, entered a general plea for better conditions in dormitories, housing unemployed and urged that in the coming provincial general election, men in camps should be returned to their home constituencies in order to exercise their voting franchises. Premier Reid said the government was considering this.

Broomhall

Samuel Thompson 12120 95A St.

CHICAGO, March 28.—Since March 1 the Liverpool wheat market has advanced 6½ pence on the March and 4¾ pence on the later positions. Rotterdam during the same period has advanced 10⅝ on the March and 4⅜ to 5¾ on the deferred positions. However, the Chicago market has acted independently, the March down 2⅝ and later positions up only ½ to 1 cent.

This strengthening of the international wheat price is no doubt due to the absence of Canadian milling and the active Oriental demand for Australian wheat. It is generally realized in importing countries now that Canada will not compete for the world's trade and that they will have to depend upon offerings from the Argentine and Australia at least until the end of May.

The southern hemisphere is receiving bids from many sources and this accumulation of business is steadying prices and is expected to result in large shipments for the next nine months. What the ultimate result will be nobody knows.

Wheat markets yesterday were generally very firm. It was difficult to trace any increase in the foreign demand for overseas wheat. Liverpool bought Rosa Fe for August shipment at 23s 9d, equal to 77 cents duty paid, September shipment at 78 cents, Australian for May 81 cents, and No. 1 Manitoba from Vancouver prompt shipment at 96 cents c.i.f. U. S. funds.

This means that the Canadian-Argentine spread has again narrowed, which may result in a better demand for Manitobas ultimately. The trade is prepared for this and there are substantial quantities of wheat in the east and numerous vessels.

Giant Clipper Plane en Route Trans-Pacific

ACAPULCO, Mexico, March 28.—The Pan American "Clipper," giant airplane to be used in exploring a trans-Pacific passenger route, arrived here last night, completing a 1,300-mile non-stop flight from Miami in 11 hours 5 minutes.

The plane was to stop overnight here with its crew of six before continuing to San Diego, California. It is planned to fly to San Francisco Friday and to continue across the Pacific from there.

STOCK MARKET GIVEN CONCERN

NEW YORK, March 28.—Fresh developments on the already clouded railroad horizon gave the stock market renewed concern today and the list was divided into contrasting groups at the close. Transfers aggregated 600,000 shares.

SHARES CHURN ABOUT WITHOUT DEFINITE TREND

TORONTO, March 28.—Mining shares churned about today within a narrow range without establishing a definite trend. Silver and base metal stocks had a minor flurry of action around mid-day but the action did not carry far.

Bralorne was one of the weak issues of the senior group, losing 25 cents to 0.40. There was no explanation of the decline. Little Long Lac was strong at an advance of 30 cents to 5.70 and net gains were showing at the close for McWatters, Central Patricia, Sylvanite, Macassa and McKenzie.

TRADING DULL ON WINNIPEG GRAIN MART

WINNIPEG, March 28.—Lulled by a lack of foreign demand for Canadian wheat and declines at Liverpool, traders did little on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange today. Wheat prices closed ⅛ cent lower to ⅛ cent higher, May at 84⅞ and July 84¾ cents.

No figure was placed on exports. The price range was narrow.

Liverpool closed ⅝-1½d lower, reportedly due to a reluctance of United Kingdom millers to pay the higher prices caused by the recent advances of futures in that market. Chicago's action was similar to that of Winnipeg. Buenos Aires was ⅛ cent lower at noon.

Argentine wheat exports this week, it was estimated, would total 4,500,000 bushels, compared to 2,750,000 last week. No wheat was cleared from Black Sea ports this week.

Cash grains were quiet. Some investment buying in flax gave those futures an early one-cent hoist, the only feature to the coarse grains market.

Will Hang for Police Slaying

ST. THOMAS, Ont., March 28.—Frank Temple last night was convicted of the murder of Police Constable Colin McGregor and sentenced by Mr. Justice W. T. Henderson in assize court to be hanged June 27.

Temple, who shot down the officer in the Temple home last May 7 when McGregor and two other policemen came to execute a warrant for theft, took the jury's verdict and the death sentence calmly.

AMUSEMENTS

CAPITOL

A new and brilliant romantic team is born in "After Office Hours," new Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picture, which opened yesterday at the Capital theatre for a three-day run.

Clark Gable and Constance Bennett, two of the screen's most important stars, are teamed for the first time in a production which warrants the launching of so important a film event.

Gable and Miss Bennett have in common the same brand of comedy needed to put this sparkling society thriller over with a bang, as well as romantic appeal which undoubtedly will win them many new fans.

Directed by Robert Z. Leonard, "After Office Hours" is fast-paced and exciting. It deals with an admixture of Park Avenue and Park Row, which have for their common ground a baffling murder-mystery, solved by Gable in the role of a hardboiled newspaper editor.

STRAND

"The White Cockatoo," the new Warner Bros. murder mystery drama at the Strand Theatre today, with Jean Muir and Ricardo Cortez in the featured roles.

The picture is based on the thrilling novel of Mignon G. Eberhart and is said to be filled with hair raising situations that hold the suspense to an unusual climax. There are three murders, the kidnapping of an American heiress, and several other attempted crimes, all committed in a spooky hotel in the wind swept coast of France.

The plot centers about the attempt of two bands of criminals, working independently, to steal the fortune of the heiress. The crimes are committed in an effort to get hold of secret papers.

Mysterious persons creeping about the creaky old hotel at night and suddenly vanishing as into thin air, a hidden chamber without doors, a girl appearing in two places at the same time and other strange phenomena add to the eerie atmosphere.

MANITOBA WILL RIGIDLY ENFORSE LABOR MEASURE

WINNIPEG, March 28—Companies definitely accused of mistreating their employees and evading minimum wage laws through subterfuge will be investigated by a commission to be set up by legislation providing for inquiries into unfair trade practices, Hon. W. J. Major, attorney general, told the Manitoba legislature last night.

The bill providing for the inquiries has already been given first reading and second reading will likely be given next week. Mr. Major made his statement in reply to question by Marcus Hyman (Lab. Winnipeg) who earlier had said unfair trading was being carried on and minimum wages ignored.

U.S. Bars Liquor Once Figuring On "Rum Row"

WASHINGTON, March 28.—The odyssey of a million dollars worth of choice liquor—a tale with a sad ending for the owners of the spirits—was told Wednesday at the treasury and the federal alcohol control administration.

After journeying to and fro for thousands of miles across the Atlantic, federal officials said, the liquor has been barred from United States markets because it once formed the cargo of a ship the government suspected of being a member of California's "rum row."

Although the importers were willing to pay full duty, their offer was spurned, and officials understood today that the liquor was being sent back to Europe.

Your Children -

By OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

Have you ever visited a family where the chief indoor sport was seeing who could be the meanest to the others? Where jealousy and hatred shoved all else out of the door and took time out between bells only to get breath to go at it again?

O. R. Barton

Some years ago I found myself in such a home, otherwise I would not have thought it possible among civilized people, nor would I have been able to credit what a mother described to me not long ago about similar conditions in her own house.

Her children were pretty well grown. Her husband, she explained, came home tired, nervous and irritable. She had had too much to do and so her own temper, she confessed, was none too elastic. She supposed that once she and her husband had been in love.

"But," she added, "we have been too busy and too worried to bother with that. I think husbands and wives get over that foolish softness about each other when they have so much on their minds. But it is the children that worry me. I can't go on with this perpetual quarreling and nastiness. I nearly go crazy. I tell them I'll run off and never come back. But they know I can't. What in the world can I do?"

I said I was terribly sorry but I did not think she could do anything magic. "Your children got their ideas of outdoing each other when they were little. That makes it hard to expect any kind of co-operation now. Of course, if I were in your place, I would say, 'Ladies and gentlemen, this is my house and my castle. You cannot ruin it for me. Behave and give me some peace or else get out and stay out.'"

"Yes, and then what?" she asked. "You can't let them starve."

"I have no doubt that you go right ahead and bake them pies and keep the tail end of the steak for yourself and wash the girls' stockings and give the boys cigarette money and watch the ads for the latest styles for the whole kaboodle, while you haven't had the price of a wave yourself for months. Isn't that true?"

"Oh, I know I'm silly, but I have to do it," she confessed. "I try to keep everybody satisfied so there won't be more trouble."

NEEDS HIGH HANDED ACTION

"You have answered yourself, my dear lady," this indignant listener informed her. "While it is poor policy to resort to high-handed methods in any family circle, it is also quite permissible to keep one's sanity. You cannot stand it any longer, nor is it expected of you. Stop being Santa Claus and a doormat combined. Make those kids shut up and act like decent human beings in your house. Show some authority and spunk. They will respect you all the more.

"If you have to, feed them on bread and beans. And make them behave decently to each other. Make them. That's all—make them. But about that 'soft' business between you and your husband. Don't you think it would pay for you to start a new courtesy to each other? It is very contagious, this matter of niceness and consideration. Family co-operation usually begins with the attitude of parents to each other, to their neighbors and friends. In time very probably you will be able to stop the 'bread and beans' method with the children, figuratively speaking, for it won't be needed."

Encouraging Year For Alberta Pool

ERSKINE, March 28.—The most encouraging feature of the past year's operations was the demonstration that the Alberta Wheat Pool can, with the support of the Alberta grain growers, effect a moderate earning in one of the most difficult years, from a grain handling standpoint, that has ever been experienced in the province. This statement was made by R. A. Macpherson, director of the Pool, at a meeting here Tuesday.

T. W. Nordan, Tom Rudd and H. Lynn were elected as delegates to the constituency Social Credit convention, at the last Social Credit meeting here.

The 25th anniversary of the Erskine I.O.O.F. lodge took the form of a social evening, Monday.

Minnesota Will Plant More Wheat

ST. PAUL, Minn., March 28.—The Minnesota Co-operative Reporting Service Wednesday predicted a total planting of 1,642,000 acres of wheat this year, compared with 1,163,000 acres last year. The estimates were based on the planting intention of growers.

The reporting service, maintained jointly by the federal and state departments of agriculture, said indications are that Durum wheat will be harvested from 37,000 additional acres in 1935. Other spring wheat is expected to increase from 1,106,000 to 1,548,00 acres.

UNFINISHED SYMPHONY IN MUSICAL HIT

Rialto Film Hailed as the Greatest Musical Picture Produced

Hailed by those who have been privileged to see it in a private preview as the greatest musical film yet made, with the famous Vienna Philharmonic Orchestra and the equally famous chorus from the Vienna State Opera utilized to the full as a background for the glamorous European star Marta Eggerth, "The Unfinished Symphony" which opens at the Rialto tonight with an extraordinary preview bids fair to be the sensation of the theatre world in Edmonton for the coming week.

SCHUBERT ROMANCE

The film deals with the romance of Franz Schubert, the peerless light operatic composer, and tells the story of why the immortal symphony remains unfinished. Marta Eggerth is Europe's outstanding star of light opera and her work in "The Unfinished Symphony" stamps her as one of the screen's outstanding personalities.

That the film will be a keen delight to music lovers is assured but in its glamour, its romance, tunefulness and in the absorbing interest with which the story is told "The Unfinished Symphony" is the sort of high class film that will appeal to every theatregoer in Edmonton.

FINEST YET SHOWN

"I have viewed it twice and without any hesitation I can say it is the finest musical film yet shown on the screen. I give it my unqualified recommendation," said Manager W. J. Long of the Rialto and his judgment is backed by the keenest critics of the screen and musical world. That it will attract capacity audiences to the Rialto is a foregone conclusion.

For the big pre-view showing this evening the film is scheduled to start at 11:15 p.m. and street cars to all parts of the city will be on hand following the close of the show.

The Canada Steamships and Northern Navigation Division will move to new offices in the Imperial Bank annex on Friday morning, it was announced by G. S. Crossley, local agent for the company, Thursday morning.

HUGE LIBERAL RALLY TONIGHT MASONIC HALL

Candidates to Contest Six Edmonton Seats to be Selected

Liberals of Edmonton will select their six candidates to contest the coming provincial election when they meet in convention at the Masonic Temple Thursday evening. It is estimated that over 1,200 party adherents will be present. The meeting is scheduled to start at 7:30 o'clock.

To date there are 22 prospective candidates, but keen observers within the party expressed the opinion Wednesday that it was possible a number of "dark horses" would come before the convention.

Over 400 delegates were selected at primaries held last Thursday at 42 different polls throughout the city at which it was estimated that between 4,000 and 5,000 party followers were in attendance.

THOMPSON CHAIRMAN

The meeting will be under the chairmanship of Walter D. Thompson, with Nelles V. Buchanan as convention secretary.

It is expected that all available space on the main floor of the auditorium will be taken up by the delegates, and supporters of the party desiring seating accommodation are requested to arrive at the hall previous to the scheduled starting time to obtain their seats.

During the intervals of counting the ballots, W. R. Howson, K.C., M.L.A., leader of the party, will give a brief address, and the members of the Twentieth Century Club will present two short plays.

The following are the candidates who have signified their intention of permitting their names to come before the convention: Lin Bell, Mrs. E. T. Bishop, Nelles V. Buchanan, Mrs. J. A. Clarke, Mrs. F. W. Conroy, J. Crawford, E. Clare Darling, Alderman R. E. Foote Peter Glassman, Dr. R. C. Ghostley, C. H. Grant, K.C., Miss Marjorie Hill, W. H. Howson, K.C., M.L.A.; E. E. Howard, C. W. Lee, Jack Marshall, H. Milton Martin, Dr. W. Morrish, G. C. O'Connor, Kelly Porter, N. Romaniuk and G. H. Van Allan, K.C.

With Andy Bahr, Arctic reindeer migration official, as a passenger, Pilot Con Farrell was winging south from Aklavik Thursday. Bahr will pass through Edmonton on his way home to Seattle. Archie McMullen left Resolution for Fort McMurray Thursday, also. Both are Canadian Airways machines.

TWO ARRESTED AFTER BREAK-IN

Nabbed when Constable J. H. Cookson got the drop on them when he found them inside Sheldon's store, 10155 99 street shortly after 11 p.m. Wednesday night, Jack Doyle and George Nelson are under arrest on a charge of shopbreaking.

Making the rounds of his beat late Wednesday, Cookson found the front door of Sheldon's store open and, on entering, heard a noise from the rear. He ran around to the back, unlocked the door and found Doyle and Nelson inside. Covering them with his revolver, he herded them into the office, handcuffed them together and then called Sergt. Donald Hynd at headquarters for the patrol wagon.

Examination of the premises disclosed that three suitcases had been crammed full of new clothing and were standing close to the rear door ready for removal.

Five Applications For Citizenship Papers Approved

Five applications for Canadian citizenship papers were approved by Mr. Justice Boyle in supreme court chambers Thursday. One applicant, Peter Bulczak, was rejected because of an inadequate knowledge of English.

The successful applicants were: Jacob Ziesman, South Cooking Lake farmer, formerly of Russia; Antanas Pranzkevicuis, Topland farmer, formerly of Lithuania; Rudolph Taran, Calahoo, formerly of Poland; Basil Dyky, Edmonton, formerly of the Ukraine and Ivan Popowick, Smoky Lake, formerly of Poland.

THE INQUIRING REPORTER

The gun-for-gun proposal of Adolf Hitler caused the Inquiring Reporter to seek opinions from ex-service men with the following results:

• • •

WILLIAM OGDEN, Mons retreat veteran: "It seems that the German dictator is out to cause trouble. As on a previous occasion he may find plenty of trouble."

• • •

OLIE GUNDERSON, Canadian army veteran: "There seems to be a lot of talk about war. I'm not worrying unless they call up the class of 60 years."

• • •

BILL FRASER, unemployer veteran: "Of course if Hitler wants gun for gun it's O.K. by me. It will make work somewhere, and that's a good thing. The only thing for us to do is to prepare, but in the meantime strive for peace."

• • •

DAVE SMITH, Imperial veteran: "Let Hitler have the gun for gun proposal he wants. Let the other nations watch and wait, but let Hitler know they are prepared. The greatest method of preserving peace is to be prepared and well prepared for any opponent. I do not think there is any danger of a war."

Police Court

"I was just out of jail and was broke and hungry," Jack Doyle told the court when he appeared with George Nelson on a shopbreaking charge before Magistrate Col. P. C. H. Primrose Thursday morning. "I've spent the past 10 years, since 1925, in the penitentiary, and it has done me more harm than good."

On a plea of Prosecutor Charles Becker, Col. Primrose agreed to give the accused a jail term rather than send him back to the penitentiary. Two years less one day was the penalty. Nelson, with no previous record, got one year.

Convicted of stealing $15 from the cash register of the Fleming Drug store, 101 street, on three different occasions, when he entered the place on the pretext of using the phone, George Tannous was given four months at hard labor. He had a juvenile record of 12 convictions.

• • •

Hans Lund and Leonard Hansen who tore down a booth in the Henry Cafe Wednesday night were each fined $20 and costs with the option of 30 days in jail when they pleaded guilty to wilful damage.

• • •

Angered because a hotel desk clerk refused to cash a cheque, Argyle McFarlane tossed the phone book at him, which hit and broke an electric light switch and globe. The penalty was set at $2 fine when the accused agreed to pay the damage.

• • •

Kinar Swason who kicked in two windows of the Keil printshop on 97 street Wednesday night, also agreed to pay up and was fined $2.

• • •

"It will be a preliminary hearing," decided Col. Primrose when Mike Prostawick pleaded guilty to theft of a $50 watch. Prostawick was committed for trial.

• • •

Two youths who pleaded guilty to firing off guns in Rat Creek ravine contrary to the city by-law were fined $3 and costs each.

• • •

William J. Finlay of 7 Archibald Block has no connection with the William Finlay whose name appeared in police court news on Wednesday as being concerned in recent break-ins in the city.

Edmonton bank clearings for the week ending Thursday, March 28 were $2,860,791.95 compared with $3,028,081.83 for the corresponding week in 1934, a decrease of $167,289.88.

G. H. Goehrig, Jr., and A. V. Milroy, of Milwaukee, Wisconsin, are business visitors in Edmonton and are guests at the Macdonald hotel. They will remain in the city for a few days.

Weather observations he has made on prairie meteorological conditions were described to the University of Alberta Physics Club Wednesday by Professor L. H. Nichols who has been conducting a survey under auspices of the Carnegie Fund.

The regular meeting of the delegates to the Edmonton Council of the Canadian League Against War and Fascism will be held on Friday, March 29, at eight o'clock, in the Masonic Temple council rooms, 10318 100 avenue. Speaker for the night will be Mrs. McConkey of the Women's International League, and her subject will be, "Pacifist Pilgrimage."

Royal Canadian Mounted Police have a big squad of investigators at hand at all times, but just to make everything formal and proper, a report was made to city police when the club house of the R.C.M.P. tennis courts was broken into Wednesday night. Sergt. Lawson, R.C.M.P., made the report to the city force.

HANDEL MUSIC EATON PROGRAM

Next Tuesday from 7 p.m. until 8 p.m. the T. Eaton Company, Ltd., broadcast with Reginald Stewart and his symphony orchestra will feature the famous "Water Music" by Handel. This music, composed by the mighty maestro to patch up a breach with the Monarch, George III, is among the finest Handel composed.

The program given on the Eaton hour last Tuesday already has won wide approval and the famous Toronto conductor and his orchestra are assured of a large audience next week.

Hospital May Take Appeal To Privy Council

Judgment for approximately $17,000, in damages to Mrs. Lydia Beatty, against the Misericordia Hospital, handed down by Mr. Justice Boyle, Saturday, may be appealed direct to the privy council, it was learned Thursday.

C. Becker and H. A. Dyde, solicitors for the defendant hospital will confer with the directors of that institution shortly when a decision will be made as to whether or not the appeal will be taken to the supreme court of Canada or to the privy council.

LICENSE FEES FOR RADIO DUE MONDAY, APR. 1

Edmonton Leads Province In Number Licenses Issued

Radio licenses expire on Sunday, March 31, end of the fiscal year, and new licenses will be available Monday at all radio stores, post offices or the government radio office in the Blowey-Henry building, it was announced Thursday by W. J. Allen, radio inspector.

NEW COLOR

The radio inspector suggests that licenses be kept in a convenient place, preferably in the back of the set, in order that checking by inspectors may be facilitated.

During the fiscal year period from April 1, 1934, to February 28, 1935, 11 months, radio licenses issued in Edmonton numbered 12,838 as against 11,345 for the entire 12 months of the fiscal year April 1, 1933, to March 31, 1934, Inspector Allen reports. Corresponding figures for Calgary are 11,574 and 9,748. Edmonton leads all the cities in the province in the number of licenses issued.

ONTARIO LEADS

For the 11-month period 48,380 licenses were taken out in Alberta as compared to 40,455 for the 12 months of the preceding fiscal year. Figures for Saskatchewan for the 11 months are 40,822; for Manitoba, 52,296; and for British Columbia 70,051. The province issuing the largest number of licenses was Ontario, where 338,472 were taken out.

Dr. K. W. Neatby Appointed To Varsity Staff

Dr. Kenneth W. Neatby, of the Dominion Rust Research Laboratory, has been appointed to the headship of the Department of Field Crops, as successor to Dr. O. S. Aamodt, who has accepted the position of head of the Department of Agronomy in the University of Wisconsin.

Dr. Neatby is a graduate of the University of Saskatchewan and of the University of Minnesota, and held a National Research Council Fellowship (U.S.A.) in Cambridge University, England. He has been cereal specialist in the Rust Research Laboratory for several years, and has been actively engaged in the cereal breeding problem. He has won for himself a position not only in the field of genetics but as well in broad and thorough scholarship. Dr. Neatby will take up his duties on May 1.

Relief Estimates Based On Ottawa

Reduction by $150,200 of the direct relief grants to cities over the amount granted by the legislature does not mean the cities will [illegible] on Thursday. The contribution last year was based on the Dominion contribution of 33 and one-third per cent of the costs.

This year's estimate is based on the lump sum monthly payment. Thus the existing monthly payment will be continued so long as existing agreements continue or are renewed on the same basis.

The monthly sum payment to Edmonton is $47,500 a month and to Calgary $61,500.

MINERS FLYING TO ATHABASKA

Kennedy arrived here from the north at 5:45 p.m., Wednesday, with five passengers from Fort Smith. They included Dr. A. Morrow, medical officer, Fort Smith, and Frank Conibear, former Rhodes scholar and graduate of the University of Alberta.

With passengers and supplies for Lake Athabaska W. Leigh Brintnell also took off Thursday in the early morning for the north in a Mackenzie Air Services Ltd. Fairchild.

Fair And Cold Forecast Here

From a maximum of 22 above zero yesterday afternoon, temperature dropped to zero from 5 to 7 o'clock this morning, recovering to two above at 8 and 9 o'clock. The barometer this morning was steady at 27.79.

FORECLOSURE ON 2 HOUSES IS PREVENTED

Application of Mortgage Company Adjourned By Court

With all the skill and persuasive eloquence of a veteran member of the bar, Frank Richardson Lovette, Edmonton building contractor, won an argument—for the time being, at least—with a mortgage company before Mr. Justice Boyle in supreme court chambers Thursday that prevented foreclosure on two city homes, the property of Mr. Lovette.

In his plea to have more time to pay principal and interest on two mortgages totalling $3,000, held by the North American Life Assurance company, Mr. Lovette emulated Mayor Gerry McGeer of Vancouver and other leading Canadians, and asked the court to make effective a slash in interest rates.

The court, somewhat startled at such an application apparently, stated he was not aware of the fact if he did possess such authority.

F. Armour Ford, appearing for the mortgage company, told the court that Lovette had failed to pay the taxes on the properties in question for the past three years and that to protect its interest, the company had paid these arrears, amounting to $1,000. Right to collect rentals from the two houses, amounting to $62.50 a month was asked.

Mr. Justice Boyle adjourned the application until April 26. In the meantime Lovette will undertake to sell other properties and re-instate the mortgages in good standing.

Two of the larger permits for alterations and repairs issued by the city building department recently follow: Gariepy Estate, 10004 Jasper avenue, alterations to roof, $450; United Grain Growers Ltd., 103 street and Saskatchewan Drive, re-shingling and repairs to roof, $200.

Tonight, the big-leaguers renew their playoffs that eventually lead to the Stanley Cup . . . At Toronto, the bruising Bruins from Boston will battle Maple Leafs in the third game of their N.H.L. title series, while New York Rangers will play hosts to Montreal Maroons in the first clash of their series to decide the team to meet th· Bruin-Leaf winners in the finals. . . . .

While the pros are battling for supremacy down East, North Battleford Beavers will be commencing their struggle for Western Canada Allan Cup laurels at Port Arthur. . . . While I do not know how good the Port sextet may be, I do know they will have to be a strong aggregation to humble the Beavers. . . . The North Battleford outfit has a lot of sustained speed, every one of their forwards skating fast both ways, and it takes a lot to beat a team like that. . .

Harry Scott, writing in the Calgary Albertan, wonders why hockey games attract such small crowds in his city. . . . He guesses at a variety of reasons—counter attractions, soft ice, and so on . . . Quite likely, all of them are wrong. . . . A mediocre brand of hockey might be a guess a lot closer to the mark . . . Despite terrible ice conditions, the biggest Calgary crowd of the past season turned out to see two outside teams perform—Superiors and Kimberley Dynamiters . . . . which would indicate that a couple of good teams can draw as well in Calgary as in any other city in the West.

Undoubtedly, as he suggests, artificial ice would help matters along, but even that wouldn't do any good if the fans were not given a better brand of hockey than they have been getting down there. . . . Calgary hockey has slumped a whole lot during the last few winters . . . About all the Cowtown fans can say now it: "Remember when ——?"

If hockey bosses of the Southern city would consider entering an inter-city league next season, the calibre of the sport there would not only be raised, but the customers would come out again. . . . There is no doubt about Edmonton being able to put in a pair of good clubs, so surely Calgary could get together a couple with sufficient class to make a good circuit. . . . Then, if Drumheller and Olds cared to enter, a really interesting league could be operated within a comparatively small area.

Something, surely, needs to be done about senior hockey in Alberta. . . Two teams is the limit as far as Edmonton is concerned, and the same goes for Calgary. . . . . This city should no longer try to operate with three or four clubs—and I don't think it will. . . . . So an intercity group is the solution to the problem.

MIDLAND, Ont., March 28—Barrie Colts last night defeated St. Michael's College Buzzers from Toronto, 4-3 in the first of a two-game total-goal series for the Ontario Hockey Association Junior "B" championship. The second game will be played in Toronto Friday night.

GRADETTES TO PLAY CALGARY QUINTET HERE

Tait Now Busy Putting Locals Through Final Practices

W. T. Tait is busy putting his Gradettes through their final paces before taking on the Calgary Carsons Saturday night up in the McDougall Commercial High School gym in the final game of a home and home series, total points to count, for the provincial intermediate hoop crown. The locals will enter the fray down two points as a result of the losing the first game to Calgary last Saturday at Calgary by that margin.

This 1935 edition of the Gradettes is vastly different than the 1934 squad. They have a bunch of new players and a new style of play. Three of the 1934 stars are in a Grad uniform this season.

Outside of the odd jaunt down to Ponoka, the locals have stuck pretty well to home. Calgary on the other hand took Lethbridge, the Beavers, Red Wings, and the Witches all of Calgary, during their campaign. The Beavers incidentally are present senior southern champions.

This is the first time in ten years that the Gradettes enter a game taking a small end of the score in a provincial playoff. It is now up to the Tait lassies to take the southerners in their own backyard.

Seating accommodation of the McDougall school is limited to 160. All of the seats are choice with no obstructions. Tickets can be secured from any of the players or at the school. There will be an extra low price for students who show their identification card at the door.

Drumheller Hockey Club Re-organized Under New Plans

DRUMTHELLER, March 28—Organization of Drumheller Miners Hockey club on a more permanent basis was accomplished Wednesday night at the annual meeting of the association. An executive of six members being elected to manage the club for a three-year period to replace the year-by-year executive of past seasons.

Charlie Jamieson, last season's business manager was unanimously elected president of the club for a three-year term and will be supported by Ed. Melville, Sandy Watt, T. F. Hamilton, Mervin Piper, Tommy Boyes and G. Powell. Rr. T. Ross, brother of Coach Art Ross of Boston Bruin fame was elected as honorary president of the club in recognition of his valuable services over the past years.

The new Miner executive opens its deliberations in the red but it is anticipated that the small indebtedness will be cleared off by public subscriptions.

Votes of thanks were passed to the retiring executive, Coach Reg. Mackie, Captain Gus Gustason, team members and Business Manager Jamieson by club subscribers before the meeting closed.

Maroons Play Rangers In Semi-Finals While Boston Seeks Lead Over Leafs

Squads at Full Strength in First Clash of Two-Game Series

NEW YORK, March 28.—Montreal Maroons and New York Rangers were riding the rails toward this metropolis last night for their semi-final round battle in the Stanley cup wars.

Bill Cook

Advices were both squads would be at full strength when they match brains and brawn at Madison Square Gardens tonight in the first game of their total-goal series for the right to meet the survivors of the current National Hockey League title struggle between Boston and Toronto.

Captain Bill Cook, whose scalp was opened by Nels Crutchfield's stick here Sunday, and Earl Seibert, made lame by a Sylvio Manthat check in the first encounter, were two of the stars as the Blueshirts held the desperate Canadiens to a four-goal draw on their home ice Tuesday night to win the round 6-5.

Maroons were in top condition and optimistic as they left Chicago for New York after eliminating last year's Stanley cup winners by a 1-0 score Tuesday night after the teams had played a scoreless draw in the first game at Montreal.

Hooley Smith took his injured thumb into the decisive game against the Hawks. With two more days for the injured digit to show further improvement, the No. One pivot of Tommy Gorman's hopefuls was expected to be in top shape for the Ranger series.

HOCKEY NOW FLOURISHING IN OLD LAND

But No Room Yet Available for Professionals in England

WINNIPEG, March 28.—England, the country where they take tea with their cricket and do a good job on both, is becoming "quite keen" on hockey and finds it mixes rather well with beer.

But though Canada's national sport has become increasingly popular in every respect, it is not believed a professional league will elbow the amateurs out of the Old Country's hockey picture — not for a good while at any rate.

Percy Argue, just back from a success-full and fun-full continental tour with Winnipeg Monarchs, says there's not enough "hockey money" over there to keep a high class professional league in business and "anything but a top-notch outfit would look shoddy against the already-organized amateur leagues.'"

LARGE RINKS SCARCE

Scarcity of large rinks rather than lack of fan interest is the snag in the plans of pro-professional promoters. London, Berlin and Paris have large stadiums but even a full house in any other arena would net little more than car-fare for a costly troop like King Clancy, Eddie Shore and others of the "big time".

And the Englishman's attitude is "give us the best—or else." —Only he doesn't say it quite that way!

Argue feels the anti-amateurs are off on the wrong foot anyway because the International League, with three English teams, two from Paris and one each from Berlin and Prague, provides first class hockey.

Kingfish Wins

Clash Tonight

Tommy Gorman, left, and Lester Patrick, right, both confident of winning the series, clash tonight in a duel of hockey strategy, when Montreal Maroons and New York Rangers meet in their first game of their semi-final series. Total goals will count in this series and the team winning tonight's game will be in a most favorable position.

Preston Ladies Crowned Canada's Hockey Champs

Defeat Winnipeg Eatons In Final Game by 3-1 Margin

GALT, Ont., March 28.—Preston Rivulettes became holders of the Lady Bessborough trophy, emblematic of the women's hockey championship of Canada, last night by defeating Winnipeg Eatons 3-1 to win the two-game round 10-2.

Evidence of the popularity of women's hockey was found in the crowd of 3,000 that jammed the Soper Park arena. Mrs. Myrtle Cook McGown of Montreal, president of the Canadian Women's Amateur Hockey Association, opened the game by dropping the puck and was presented with a bouquet by Hilda Ranscombe, captain of the Rivulettes. After the game Mrs. McGowan presented the Bessborough trophy to the champions on behalf of Lady Bessborough and also gave each member of the Preston team a miniature duplicate of the big cup.

The Preston girls are worthy champions. They have been playing hockey for six years, and have won the Ontario title ever year.

BRILLIANT NEW HUPP IS HERE

For years the buyers of cars in the lower priced field have been forced to make their selection on the basis of the one quality they wanted most in a motor car. To obtain beauty they had to sacrifice performance or to forego comfort. If comfort was most desired, then they sacrificed style.

The new 1935 Hupmobile has changed this condition entirely. Here's a car in the low price field that has everything anyone could want.

A striking car of streamlined beauty, with 101 horsepower engine, giving brilliant performance, genuine comfort, roominess for six passengers and riding qualities that defy description.

A husky steel body, with X reinforcement frame, hydraulic shock absorbers, hydraulic brakes, extra resilient springs, are only a few of the many noteworthy engineering features of this new Hupp.

This new car comes in eight brilliant colors, including Sapphire Blue, Gunmetal, Deep Orange, Verenese Green and the conventional black. And the most surprising item about this Hupp is the price. You won't be disappointed in this new series 518 Hupmobile

Victoria Cagers Capture Crown

VICTORIA, March 28.—Victoria Blue Ribbons, holders of the Dominion basketball crown two years ago, defeated University of British Columbia 37-36 here last night in the fifth and deciding game of the best-of-five series for the British Columbia men's senior "A" title. Each team had previously won two games.

Blue Ribbons will now meet Kelowna, provincial senior "B" champions, for the right to represent the province in the Dominion playdowns.

Toronto Seniors Nearing Finals

TORONTO, March 28—Outclassed in every department but gameness, fore Toronto All-Stars 11-0 here last night in the second game of their Allan Cup playdown series. Toronto won the first game in Ottawa Monday 3-2 and will now meet Montreal Royals with the first game in Montreal on Friday, March 29.

Both Teams Confident of Winning, but Each Are Respectful

TORONTO, March 28.—The Leafs and the Bruins moved into Toronton last night to finish a National Hockey League championship series that will be decided, perhaps as early as Saturday night, by the durability of two defensive systems. All square with one victory each, the contending forces arrived here confident but extremely respectful of each other.

Babe Siebert

Toronto evened the series on Tuesday night by winning 2-0, after losing the first game 1-0 in 33 minutes of overtime. Either team can finish the hostilities and qualify for the Stanley cup finals by winning tonight and Saturday. If they divide these contests, a fifth will be played next Tuesday.

Close to 15,000 people will pack Maple Leaf Gardens tonight to see the Leafs attempt to smash Frank Patrick's defences, the bulwark that was conceived to shackle Charlie Conacher and Harvey Jackson, Toronto's master gunners. Some of the smashing has already taken effect.

Babe Siebert, who has replaced both Eddie Shore and Nels Stewart as the "villain" in the Boston cast in the view of Toronto customers, will play beside Shore on the defence with a swollen and aching ankle. Dit Clapper, whose overtime goal broke up the first series game, has a stiff knee. Goalie Tiny Thompson wears stitches in his lip.

Statistics show that alcohol is a factor in from 7 to 10 per cent of all driver and pedestrian accidents

FIGHTERS ARE PREPARED FOR CARD FRIDAY NIGHT

Western Canada Titular Bout Will Headline Boxing Show

Headlined by an officially-recognized Western Canada middleweight championship bout between Sailor Goodland, claimant to the title, and Johnny Blochlinger, of Edmonton, a card of 30 rounds of boxing will be staged in the New Empire theatre on Friday night, with action starting at 8:30 o'clock sharp.

The Boxing and Wrestling Commission has placed its official stamp of approval upon the championship battle which brings together the outstanding middleweights of the West, so that a real struggle is looked for when the two fighters go into action. This is the first time in history of boxing in Western Canada that the powers-that-be have officially recognized a Western champion.

FINE FIGHTERS

Goodland, who hails from Carstairs and has been an outstanding Southern Alberta battler for the past few years, has a decision over Eddie Wenstob to his credit, so little more need be said of his ability. Blochlinger, a product of Edmonton amateur ranks, has been training regularly and is confident of whipping the more-experienced Goodland.

"Wildcat" Carter, Seattle negro who is such a favorite here, held a public workout in the York Hotel gym yesterday and made a great impression on the 200 fans in attendance. After a session of shadow-boxing, he breezed through three rounds of fighting with a pair of young sparring partners, whom he just toyed with. Carter meets Frankie Kmecki, of Winnipeg, in the semi-windup of the card.

JOHNNY BLOCHLINGER

Clever middleweight boxer of Edmonton, who on Friday faces his biggest test in a 10-round bout with Sailor Goodland on the headline event at the Empire Theatre card. The bout is slated and approved of by the boxing association as a titular go for the Western Canada championship.

Swimming Record Again Shattered

ROTTERDAM, March 28—Willy Den Ouden, Dutch mermaid, Wednesday lowered the listed world's record for the 500-metre free style swim, covering the distance in six minutes, 48-4-5 seconds. The listed record is held by Helen Madison of the United States, who swam the distance in 7:12 in 1931.

St. Paul Wins Against Millers

ST. PAUL, March 28—St. Paul took a lead of two games to one in the Central League Hockey playoffs last night by defeating Minneapolis here 4-3. They advanced to a position where they can clinch the championship by winning the next game at Minneapolis Friday night.

VANCOUVER TAKES TITLE BY WIN OVER SEATTLE

LIONS VICTORS OVER SEATTLE SQUAD BY 2-1

Tip O'Neill Gets Goal That Gave Vancouver Championship

SEATTLE, March 28.—Vancouver Lions won the Northwestern Professional Hockey League championship here last night when they eked out a 2-1 overtime victory over Seattle Seahawks in the fifth and deciding game of their best of five series.

Tip O'Neill, diminutive second string centre who learned his hockey at St. Mary's College in Calgary, gave Vancouver its first professional hockey championship in years when he soloed through the entire Seattle team after three minutes and 14 seconds of overtime and drove the puck into the Seattle net.

SMITH GOT FIRST

Clint Smith sent Lions off to a one-goal lead in the last half minute of the opening session when he caught Seahawks flat-footed. The entire Seattle team started a rush, but Bobby Kirk broke up the attack at centre ice and passed to Smith at the Seattle blue line. Emmett Venne, in the Seahawks' goal, came out to meet Smith, but the tricky Vancouver centre circled the netminder and flipped the puck into the open cage.

Seahawks tied the score in the first two minutes of the middle period. Cam Proudlock broke through the Vancouver defence but Johnny Clark, Lions' goalie, stopped the shot. Proudlock grabbed the rebound and passed it across the goalmouth to Les Whittles, who pushed it into a corner of the cage.

A crowd of more than 5,000 witnessed the game.

Vancouver — Clarke; Hutton, Brennan; Smith; Kirk, Hextall; Subs: Palm, Dyck, McFarlane, O'Neill

THISTLE CURLERS ELECT OFFICERS

Members of the Thistle Curling Club held their annual meeting and election of officers at their club rooms recently. Reports were received from all officers, which plainly showed the success that all competitions sponsored by the club met with.

The club's activities for the 1935-36 season will be in the hands of the following: honorable president, Mr. J. W. McTaggart; president, A. P. Gregory; first vice-president, R. P. Lacey; second vice-president, D. A. Morrison; auditors, Mr. R. L. Smith and Mr. D. Ewing.

The executive committee will include: H. S. Giles, W. Allen, R. Livingstone, W. D. Mowbray, M. Blackwood. Representatives to the Alberta Curling Association will be Mr. M. L. Cunningham and Mr. I. R. McLure. His Worship Mayor J. A. Clarke and J. W. Wildman have consented to lend their patronage.

All arrangements have been completed for the annual dinner and dance to be held under the joint auspices of the men's and ladies' clubs. The affair will be staged at the Corona hotel on April 3 and all trophies and prizes will be presented upon this occasion.

North Battleford Sextet Ready for Bearcats Tonight

WINNIPEG, March 28—Port Arthur Bearcats and North Battleford Beavers who won their way into the final round of the Western Canada Senior Amateur Hockey championship race, clash in the first of their two-out-of-three game series here Thursday night. The winner will travel East to meet the Eastern champions in the Dominion final for the Allan Cup.

Connie Mack Rewarded In Marcum's Pitching

Marcum Seemed Dud but Mack Waited; Now He's Ace

JOHNNY MARCUM

It appeared the Athletics had spent $30,000 foolishly when Johnny Marcum, rookie pitcher purchased from Louisville, lost his first six games last year. But Marcum pleaded for another chance.

"If you will be patient with me," he said to Connie, "I know I can win a dozen games for you this year."

Mack was patient. Marcum was as good as his word, winning 14 games out of his next 19, a record that few pitchers in either major league surpassed. Now he is regarded as ace of the Philadelphia staff, and counted on as a possible 20-game winner in 1935.

LITTLE OF THIS, LITTLE OF THAT

Marcum has a strange assortment of stuff, and is a careful student and thinker. He throws a knuckle ball taught to him by Eddie Rommel, coach and former pitcher. When Johnny was under Allan Sothoron at Louisville, he learned many of the master trickster's stunts. Sothoron, during his major league career, constantly kept umpires on the jump because of his varied freak deliveries.

Nick Cullop, the old left-hander, taught Johnny how to throw a screw ball. Mix in with the above a fine fast ball, fair curve and excellent change of pace and the result is bad medicine for batters. Johnny has mentally indexed most of the hitters in the league, and knows offhand what each likes to hit.

FATHER SEMI-PRO PITCHER

Marcum is a native Kentuckian, spending the off season at Eminence, about 12 miles from Campbellsburg, where he was born Sept. 9, 1909. His father, Ben Marcum, was a semi-pro hurler. Signed for a trial with Louisville in 1928, Johnny was sent to Dayton, O., in the Central league in '29. Because of his hitting ability he often was used in the outfield when not on the rubber. Finally he was brought back to Louisville, where the Athletics found him late in the 1933 season.

One of Johnny's possessions is a baseball on which are written the words, "Johnny Marcum beats Schoolboy Rowe, Aug. 24, 1934, ending 16-game winning streak." Victory for Rowe in that game would have established a new American league record.

BOSTON SEXTET TOPS CIRCUIT

BOSTON, March 28.—The official final standing issued last night from headquarters of the Canadian-American Hockey League showed Boston Cubs, as holders of first place, had set a new league record in goals scored and in game-points

FINAL STANDING

	W.	L.	T.	F.	A.	P
Boston	29	13	6	185	125	64
Quebec	23	19	6	141	123	52
Providence	19	17	12	124	144	50
New Haven	19	17	12	124	144	50
Philadelphia	15	30	3	122	160	35

Closing the season with a brilliant scoring spurt, Lloyd Jackson, New Haven centre, swept into a tie for scoring honors with Paul Runge, Quebec left-winger. Both have 58 points. Providence had four of the first 10 scorers with Leo Gaudreault, Hago Harrington, Jerry Lowrey and Gus Rivers of Winnipeg who had 18 goals and 23 assists.

SHORE BRINGS HOCKEY BACK IN BEANTOWN

Great Come-back Again Gives Boston Full "Houses"

NEW YORK, March 28—Admiration of New England hockey fans for Eddie Shore brought back hockey in Boston when the popular puckchasing pastime had sunk to an extremely low ebb after the Ace Bailey incident of last year.

Charles F. Adams, owner of the Boston Bruins now colliding with Toronto Maple Leafs for the National Hockey League title, is authority for the statement Shore saved the game hereabouts.

During the early months of the present season a sell-out at Boston Garden was unknown. A crowd of 8,000 or 9,000 was considered exceptionally good. Hockey appeared to have suffered a death-blow until Eddie started to come back. In the first two games of the best three-out-of-five for the league title more than 16,000 fans packed the Garden each game with hundreds clamoring for seats—hockey had come back with Shore.

SHORE GREATEST

"I have talked with the present-day greats among hockey players and with the big stars of other days," said Adams, "and they all tell me Shore is the greatest player of all time. Never from what I can gather has the game known such an all around star. There have been men as good as Shore offensively, there have been those as great as Eddie defensively, but never a man combining those two qualities as he does.

"He made the game here, through no fault of his own almost wrecked it, but the same Shore has re-made hockey's popularity and today you will find interest in the game here greater than ever before.

"As Shore goes so go the Bruins. When Eddie started to click this season the whole team commenced going places and the fans started to come back and you see for yourself how the fans have rallied around him."

Danford Cagers Advance Playoffs

TORONTO, March 28—Danforth Sunday Morning Class last night overcome a four-point lead held by Jewish Community House Seniors from the first game of a home and home, points to count series, and advanced to meet Windsor-Walkerville Alumni in the Ladies' Ontario Basketball Association finals.

The Jewish girls played gamely but were downed 26 to 18 and dropped the round 57-53.

Senator's Ace Catcher After Lengthy Holdout

CLIFF BOLTON

A man who almost stayed out of baseball last year, holding out until July for a raise in pay, is one of the most important players on the Washington club in 1935.

He is William Clifton (Cliff) Bolton, who becomes the Nats' first-string catcher with the transfer of Luke Sewell to the White Sox. Not only that, but Bolton is expected to supply the punch at the place lost when Joe Cronin was sold to the Red Sox, and Manager Bucky Harris probably will use him as clean-up, or fourth batter, in the line-up.

Bolton already has signed his contract, having received another advance in pay. During the first three months of the 1934 season, he sat in his grocery store at High Point, N.C., reading box scores, and not long after he did sign and begin catching for the club, he suffered a broken finger.

HARD ON FENCES

Knocking down fences in the minor leagues was Cliff's specialty for more than four years. Born on a North Carolina farm, April 10, 1907, he moved to High Point where he became a catcher on the high school team. He joined with the High Point team in the Piedmont league in 1928, and hit an amazing .403 in 92 games.

He promoted himself to New Haven in the Eastern league in 1929, where he hit .356. Clark Griffith became interested in the young catcher and sent him to Chattanooga in 1930, where he hit .380. The Senators brought him in in 1931, but he appeared mostly as a pinch hitter.

He was sent back to Chattanooga and hitting for .338. Joe Engel recommended that Washington take him in 1932, and put in a hard summer of work catching in 132 games him back in 1933. Appearing mostly as a pinch hitter in 1933, he helped Washington win the pennant by his timely batting, finishing the season with a .421 average for 38 times at bat in 32 games.

Bucky Harris counts on Cliff to carry the hod in the catching department this year, as the other two catchers on the staff are rookies. It's Bolton, or else!

Grand National Odds Shortened To Low Price

LONDON, March 28—Odds on the favorites for the Grand National Steeplechase were shortened last night in an emergency call-over arranged by bookmakers following a popular victory in the Lincolnshire.

Golden Miller, last year's winner and now topweight was knocked down from 7 to 2 to the almost unheard of price for a Grand National candidate of 5 to 2. Thomond II. was shortened from 13 to 2 to 6 to 1. Tapinois remained third choice at 9 to 1.

Other odds Reynoldstown 18 to 1; Southern Hero, Castle Irwell and Really True 20 to 1; Brienz 22 to 1; Alexena and Royal Ransom 25 to 1. Blue Prince 33 to 1. The 16 other eligibles ranged at longer figures.

The extraordinary call-over was held in view of heavy commitments on the famous "spring double", in most of which Flamenco is coupled with Golden Miller or Thomond

BAER CERTAIN CARNERA WILL WHACK LOUIS

Max Even More Confident He Can Stop any of the Challengers

SACRAMENTO, Calif., March 28—Heavyweight Champion Max Baer predicted yesterday that Primo Carnera would explode the meteoric rush of Detroit's sensational Negro fighter, Joe Louis.

At the same time Max calmly reassured the pugilistic world he would whack any and all challengers lopsided—whenever a title bout is arranged.

Before and during a hot golf match, the big Californian went through the serious business of taking to pieces the various contenders for his crown.

"I think Carnera will beat Louis when they fight in June," Max said.

"If Carnera is in as good physical condition as when he fought me, I think he will wear Louis out.

"But no matter who comes out on top I'll be on hand to give the ultimate winner a trouncing. They all look alike to Maxie when he gets them in the ring."

EDMONTON GATEWAY TO MINERAL AREAS

Municipal Airport Key Point And Base Of Air Operations

Blatchford Field Becoming More Important Each Day as Jumping-Off Place for Mining Fields

Strategical key point and base of operations for the work of developing the vast mineral resources of the north is the Edmonton Municipal airport.

One of the few fields and hangars in Canada to be given Class A-1 rating Blatchford Field, situated to the north and east of Portage Ave., is becoming more important each day as a jumping off place for the mineral fields stretching all the way from Fort McMurray to the ice-locked coasts of the Arctic.

Although the modern, up-to-date hangar was only constructed in 1930, importance of this city as a flying centre has now reached the point where the facilities—good as they are—are inadequate to cope with the heavy demands created through exploitation of the fabulous mineral wealth of the north.

LEADING AIRPORT

"The leading airport of Canada" is the term applied to Blatchford Field and its auxiliary, the Cooking Lake seaplane and hydroplane base, by officials of air transportation firms from one end of the dominion to the other and by the federal department of civil aviation.

With three large transportation firms having headquarters here there is a crying need for additional hangar space and efforts are being made to have the airport enlarged in the near future.

OVERHAUL JOBS

All overhaul jobs on aeroplane motors for the big fleet of sky ships operating between here and the north, are done at the airport, and about 25 air engineers and mechanics are given steady employment keeping the machines in tune.

Although the city has additional acreage for landing fields, the real need at the moment is for more hangar space in the city and for better facilities at the water base at Cooking Lake.

The increasing importance of Edmonton as a flying centre was recognized by the Federal government last year when they transferred the offices of Howard C Ingram, inspector of civil aviation for western Canada from Regina to this city.

Most active in the efforts to secure a more [illegible] have been members of the Edmonton and Northern Alberta Aero Club. The student flyers are particularly anxious to have a [illegible] landing pier completed at Cooking Lake so that one of the four Moth instruction ships belonging to the club may be equipped with pontoons and be available for emergency flights to the north during the summer months.

Discovered Athabasca Gold Area

AUGUST NYMAN, who came to Canada from Finland 20 years ago, is credited with being the discoverer of the rich Lake Athabasca gold field. Nyman, who has consistently followed the profession of prospector and trapper since arriving here, has lived on Lake Athabasca for the past eight years.

In the spring of 1934, while out on his trap line, he noticed sulphides through a fissure in the rock on the shores of the lake northwest of his cabin. He took samples and showed them to Tom Box, Edmonton prospector, who was working in the vicinity. Box had the samples assayed revealing gold values as high as $150 to the ton. The men interested Consolidated Mining and Smelting Company and this firm is now diamond drilling on claims staked by Nyman. Further prospecting showed rich surface values in free gold as well as sulphides.

CORSER-DOYLE OUTFIT READY

All records for tonnage moved across the Fitzgerald-Smith portage, vital connecting link with the rich radium and silver areas of the Great Bear Lake district, are expected to be shattered during 1935. At least that's the prediction of J. J. Doyle of the Corser-Doyle Transportation company Ltd., who is at present busily preparing for the rush of business that will follow the break-up of ice in northern waterway systems.

The road over which the Corser-Doyle trucks operate, was constructed by Mr. Doyle in the summer of 1934.

GOLD QUOTATIONS

Gold quotations, in Canadian funds, averaged $34.57 per ounce in December, at which price the Canadian output during the month was worth $9,035,699. In November the average price per ounce was $34.16 and the value of the month's production, $8,540,000.

McRae Optimistic Regarding Future Of Yellow Metal

Major-General A. D. McRae, Vancouver, recently returned from a trip to Europe, says that every source of information sought by him while in the Old Land agreed that gold will continue to be the world's only standard of value. Europeans, he said, have little or no interest in silver and are not seeking to inform themselves.

Plans calling for substitutes for gold ore credit schemes founded otherwise than on the yellow metal, have passed into Limbo, he states, adding "As to the immediate future of gold, I have returned this year more optimistic than ever. I could find none in England who would say that gold would be worth less than the present price, and many expect the price to go as high as 160 shillings."

"One important discovery I made while in England is that for the first time in history British Insurance Companies, both life and fire, and also trustee institutions, are including shares of dividend paying gold companies in their portfolios. This not only proves their confidence in the future of gold, but also in its profitableness.

WORLD STOCKS OF COPPER

World stocks of refined copper increased 10,750 tons during December to a total of 494,250. The United States stocks increased 13,000 tons during the month, but there was a decline of 2,500 in those held in other countries. The official London metal exchange warehouses contained 50,294 tons of refined copper and 12,479 of rough on Dec. 29. At the end of November 43,592 tons of refined and 12,001 of rough were on hand.

Mining Museum Open To Public

Of interest to mining men in particular and the public in general is the mining museum of the University of Alberta, which is open to public inspection. Mineral specimens from all parts of the world are included in the collection as well as a considerable assortment of preserved marine life.

GOLD PRODUCTION

Gold production in 1934 amounted to 2,964,826 ounces compared with 2,949,309 in 1933, an increase of one-half of one per cent. The December production was 261,374 ounces as against 248,639 a year ago. Ontario's gold production in December was 184,849, Quebec 38,010, British Columbia 22,952, Manitoba and Saskatchewan 13,567, Yukon 1,516, Nova Scotia 469, Alberta 11.

LAKE ATHABASCA PROMISES MUCH ACTIVITY

Platinum Important

Thanks to the high platinum content of the nickel ores from the Frood Mine, Canada is one of the largest world producers of this precious metal. Research on the part of the International Nickel Co. is helping in the Temagami district of Ontario, its complex ores are being developed largely for the platinum in evidence.

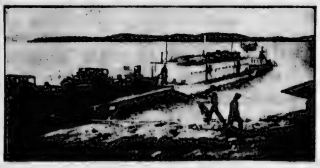
Radium Ore Cargo

Below is shown a $700,000 shipment of concentrated pitchblende ore from the property of Eldorado Gold Mines, Limited, Great Bear Lake, brought out by Northern Transportation Co., Ltd., on the last trip of the 1934 season. This was the largest single shipment of ore from the Bear Lake district. Eldorado expects to have more than 300 tons of concentrate for consignment from their property to their refinery at Port Hope, Ont., this coming summer.



New Field One Of Most Spectacular Discoveries Made

Lake Athabasca Territory Came Into Prominence During 1934 When Gold Strike of Major Importance Made.

One of the most spectacular gold discoveries in recent years was that reported last year at Lake Athabasco in northern Saskatchewan about 50 miles east of the Alberta boundary, and this field promises to be the scene of intense activity during the coming spring and summer.

The Lake Athabasca field came into prominence during the fall of 1934, when a gold discovery of major importance was made upon property since explored by Consolidated Mining and Smelting Company. Other discoveries have since been made, extensive staking has been done and diamond drilling already started on the original discovery. Three airplanes are making daily trips and more than one company is busy preparing camps

FIRST STRIKE

Copper, nickel and iron deposits have been known to exist in this field for years and considerable exploration was carried out on copper deposits in 1929 and 1930 The first reported gold find was made by a prospector for the Consolidated Mining and Smelting Company last summer. This was followed by discoveries by Great Bear Lake Mines, North West Minerals Limited and other interests.

Extensive staking has taken place, some 1,500 claims having been staked early last month. Staking parties were reaching the area daily and eastern companies were well represented in the field.

The Consolidated Mining and Smelting Company flew in a drill and crew early this year and the drill has been in operation 24 hours a day for the past six weeks. Several of the eastern companies are building camps. North West Minerals have a crew in the field erecting camps preparatory to an early start in the spring.

45 CLAIMS

North West Minerals Limited controls a total of 45 claims in six groups and encouraging discoveries have already been made on three groups. The remaining three groups cover the strike of the major discoveries in the field.

In the opinion of C. W. McKee, manager of the North West Minerals Limited, as expressed to the "Mining World," the field has more than the average possibilities. He states:

"I am strongly of the opinion that this field has better than average mine-making possibilities. The area is particularly fortunate by being reached by an all-water route from Waterways, which will materially reduce the cost of operation. This will greatly expedite the development of the various properties, and I confidently expect that the fall of this year will conclusively establish Lake Athabasca as a potential gold-producing camp. It is safe to say that this field represents the most important gold discovery made in Canada for many years. Surface dimensions of the discoveries are enormous, geological conditions are favorable. Gold content shows commercial values, and in some cases bonanza ore."

The discoveries in the district were made in a greenstone area about 16 miles long by six miles wide, classified as the Tazin series by Dr. Charles Camsell, deputy minister of mines for the Dominion, and are possibly correlated to the Sudbury and Temiskaming series of Northern Ontario.

FREE GOLD OCCURS

Free gold occurs in quartz veins cutting quartz granite porphyry masses. Free gold has also been found in porphyry. Pyrite, small amounts of galena, molybdenite and black tellurides of gold make up the most associated minerals.

Twenty-seven representative mining samples from the property of North West Minerals have yielded commercial gold ore values and indicate a gold-bearing zone of enormous dimensions. Samples were taken to represent width up to 60 feet and at intervals along the zone for over 1,500 feet.

At least ten large eastern mining companies are expected to be operating in the Athabasca area early this spring.

Operating Service To Mine Area's

chief pilot and president of Mackenzie Air Service, which operates a regular freight and passenger service to all mineral districts in the northland. Mr. Brintnell recently purchased a new 14-passenger Bellanca monoplane for his company which has been placed in the Edmonton-Great Bear Lake service carrying freight and passengers.

BRINTNELL IS PIONEER FLIER OF NORTHLAND

Now that the hard days of pioneering are over, development of the fabulous mineral wealth in Edmonton's vast hinterland to the north, from McMurray to the Arctic Ocean, will continue with increased vigor.

This is the prediction made by W. Leigh Brintnell, president and chief pilot of Mackenzie Air Services Ltd., one of the earliest trail blazers along the skyroad that led to the wonderful discoveries of radium and silver-bearing pitchblende in the Great Bear Lake area.

It was Brintnell who flew Gilbert LaBine to the north in 1929 when the latter first became convinced of the rich mineral possibilities of the rocky shores of Great Bear Lake. A year later LaBine made his now historical discovery of radium and silver deposits at LaBine Point that has made that area a mining Mecca.

SUPPLIES TRANSPORTATION

At that time it became the ambition of Mr. Brintnell to operate a fleet of airplanes in the far north, convinced as he was that only through the utilization of the flying machine could the rich area be profitably prospected and exploited. That ambition has been realized and the pioneer airman's efforts are now directed at the problem of solving the difficulty of transportation for the mining companies now operating in the Great Bear area.

The country north of the Churchill River is sparsely timbered, except in the valleys, all the hills and outcroppings being bare. This makes the area unsurpassed for prospecting from the air. Mining experts, well versed in detecting the tell-tale formations containing valuable mineral ores, can explore wide-flung areas in short periods of time from comfortable airplane cabins.

The silver and radium deposits at Great Bear Lake are wonderfully rich and are of international importance as well as to Canada and the British Empire. Airplanes operating on regular daily schedules are now engaged transporting radium and silver concentrates from the mining camps to the Fort McMurray railhead. Had it not been for the airplane this tremendously wealthy mineral field would have remained [illegible]

The new gold discoveries at Lake Athabasca and the Yellowknife River are creating a great deal of interest among mining men, and Mr. Brintnell believes that mining operations on a large scale north of Edmonton are just beginning.

Each new mineral discovery, particularly gold, gives considerable employment and provides an incentive for further exploration and prospecting.

The Athabasca find has the advantage of being in a country comparatively easy of access and where travel is not difficult. This gives the field an advantage over the gold-producing areas of Northern Quebec and Ontario, where a great deal of the terrain is heavily overburdened.

RADIUM IS MINED

—R.C.A.F. photograph.

Canada is the Empire's sole producer of Radium It is produced from pitchblende which was first discovered by Gilbert La Bine and Charles St Paul, who flew to the shores of Great Bear Lake on a prospecting expedition in 1930.

Radium is found in two areas of the Great Bear Lake district. One deposit is at Echo Bay, 30 miles south of the Arctic Circle, the other at Camsell River, 35 miles further south at the southeast corner of the lake. This country is close to the edge of the Barren Lands of the northern plains, and the only means of transportation is by boat or by aircraft

Radium is by far the most valuable, the rarest and most inaccessible mineral resource of Canada. It is being introduced to the world where only 700 to 800 grams now exist. During the past twelve months radium has sold at $50,000 per gram. Radium is found in deposits of silver and pitchblende (an uncommon radium-bearing uranium mineral). Only one gram is refined to every ten tons (7,200,000 grams) of ore. The estimated probable quantity of this precious metal in Canada is around 200 grams.

Magazines are maintained across the Dominion to render prompt service to you.

Supplies purchased in the Store or ordered by mail, telephone or wire, conveniently packed in accordance with the requirements for shipping to Athabaska, Hottah Lake, Cameron Bay, or elsewhere in the northern mineral areas.

The EATON Contract Dept. offers a personal shopping service that is of particular value to those who are seldom able to shop in person. This service is available for the selection of individual items for a camp's season supply. Experienced men will estimate cost and select the articles of your choice, superintending the selection and shipment.

Many out-of-town customers avail themselves of the opportunity to provide against unexpected wants by the opening of a deposit account in the Store. With this convenience established a message to us is all that is needed to fill your order.

Great Bear Lake Is Scene Of Brisk Mine Activity During 1934

Six Properties in District Reach Stage Where One or More Levels Have Been Opened Up.

OTTAWA, March 28.—Development has been the keynote of mining in the Northwest Territories during 1934, according to a statement issued by Hon. Thomas G. Murphy, minister of the interior, based on reports received from officers of the department in the field. Greatest activity centred in the Great Bear Lake mining district, in which the principal mining organizations continued with the development of their properties, six having reached the stage where one or more levels have been opened up. Prospecting parties worked in the various favorable rock areas during the year, and the geological survey of the department of mines had a field party engaged in continuing the geological study of the Great Bear Lake district.

The Eldorado Gold Mines, Limited, had 35 men employed at the Labine Point silver-pitchblende mine during the first part of 1934, and operated their concentrating mill at about 25 tons per day, with mill feed drawn from the first level. At that time the underground development consisted of an adit crosscut, first level drift and a raise to the surface. An expansion program was commenced when the 1934 season's freight arrived by boat and toward the close of the year there were 60 men employed at the time. The mill has been enlarged to treat about 50 tons per day, and it will be ready for operating very soon. A new and larger Diesel power plant has been installed and is now supplying the mine with sufficient air to operate several air drills. A winze has been sunk, and drifting has commenced on the second level. New mine office, staff house and recreation buildings have been constructed.

The Consolidated Mining and Smelting Company of Canada have installed a small compressor at their Echo Bay silver-pitchblende claims where surface trenching and shallow diamond drilling had been carried on in 1933. At the end of 1934, there were about 20 men employed, and an adit crosscut had been driven and drifting started on two veins.

At Contact Lake, where ores bearing sulphides of copper, cobalt, bismuth and silver have been discovered, the Bear Exploration and Radium, Limited, have opened up their second level from a winze sunk from the first level, and employed on an average a crew of 25 men.

Early in the year 1934 the El Bonanza Mining Corporation, Limited, was formed, and took over part of the holdings of the Eldorado Mines, Limited, at Dowdell Point. This new company has installed a Diesel plant and has driven an adit crosscut and carried on diamond drilling on the Bonanza-St. Paul claims. About 20 men on the average are employed at the property. The ores discovered here contain silver, niccolite, galena and fluorite.

The Great Bear Lake Mines carried on continuous operations throughout the winter and summer, but discontinued work in September, 1934. They sunk a shallow shaft and drifted on their Rad claims and drive an adit crosscut on their Bead property, at Mile Lake. This is a silver-uranium-copper proposition.

Diamond drilling was done on the Great Bear Development Company's silver-pitchblende property at Spark Plug Lake during the early part of the summer. Several other companies employed this means of exploring their ground during the summer.

In the Camsell River district about 40 miles south of Echo Bay, the White Eagle Silver Mines, Limited, have had about 25 men employed.

According to the department of the interior's mining recorder, considerable ground has been staked since the beginning of 1934 at Beaverlodge Lake, near Hottah Lake, which lies about 75 miles south of Great Bear Lake. Discoveries of pitchblende have been made there, and surface trenching has been carried on with one prospect shaft down about 50 feet.

The smallest settlement at Cameron Bay, that had its beginning in 1932, now has a population of about 50 people, including nine women, with a post office, government wireless station, Royal Canadian Mounted Police detachment, department of the interior mining recorder's office, Canadian Airways, Limited, wireless station, Hudson's Bay Company trading post, and several other smaller stores and restaurants. This settlement is the distributing centre for the surrounding mines.

RYAN BROTHERS EXPECT RUSH

Ryan Brothers, pioneer transportation men who blazed the overland trail by which northland travellers circumnavigate the "Rapids of the Drowned" on the Slave River which interrupts water travel between the Fort Fitzgerald and Smith, anticipate a greater rush of men and materials into the north this coming season than ever before.

A feat of field engineering, the Ryan Portage winds through the bush country in Alberta for three miles north of Fitzgerald and then bridges the muskeg for a remaining 13 miles in the North West Territories.

An all weather road over which all Hudson's Bay freight for the Arctic and goods for the Catholic Missions are hauled, the portage is surfaced with a heavy sand. Last year Ryan Bros. broke all records for moving freight into the north country.

The first tractor, a huge caterpillar was hauled over the portage in 1923 by Ryan Bros., and has been augmented since by additional tractors and trucks until the Ryan outfit now stands supreme in Canada for work of this nature.

Ryan Bros. have grown up with the north. The 16-mile portage between Forts Smith and Fitzgerald, is the only broken link in the splendid water system between Fort McMurray and the Arctic coast and it has been the work of this pioneer northern transportation company to keep the heavy freight moving across this gap in both directions.

Every season, as the north grew in importance, due to development of the mineral fields, Ryan Bros. have added to their equipment so that no delays would be occasioned through transportation troubles.

This year they are better-equipped than ever to cope with the heaviest traffic in history.

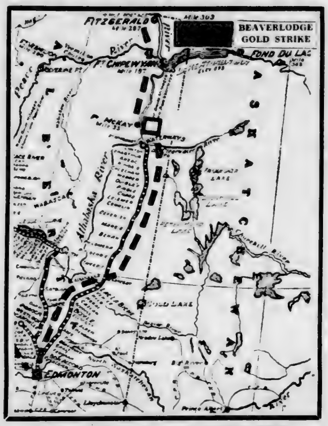
Lake Athabasca Gold Fields



Will, We Believe, Rival the Best That Canada Has So Far Produced

Startling Gold Values have been uncovered and Diamond Drilling now in progress is revealing values at a depth of from three to four hundred feet. Major developments are under way and strong Eastern interests have acquired extensive holdings in the field.

Northwest Minerals
LIMITED

Owns over 2,000 acres (45 claims) covering well mineralized areas in the heart of this rich gold field. Three important Gold discoveries have been made at widely separated points on their holdings, yielding substantial values.

Bunk houses, blacksmith's shop and camp buildings have been erected on the property by Mr. R. Alloway and crew. Arrangements are now being made for the active development of the company's holdings and the shipping of an additional crew of men with supplies and equipment early this Spring.

The 1935 development program of this Company has been recommended and will be supervised by Mr. W. B. Airth, M.E., eminent Mining Engineer of Toronto. Stripping, Rock Trenching and Diamond Drilling will be undertaken.

Mining investments offer greater opportunities for the accumulation of wealth than any other industry.

Exceeds Production of Previous Year by More Than $57,000,000 and Shows Gains in Every Department of Both Metallics and Non-Metallics—Gold Alone Responsible for More Than $100,000,000

Canada's metal and non-metal mineral production for 1934 totalled $278,337,000, an increase of more than $57,000,000 as compared with 1933. In every department production forged ahead. Gold production, plus premium, was more than $100,000,000 of the total and metals totalled more than $192,000,000, accounting for approximately $45,000,000 out of the total increase of $57,000,000.

DEVELOPMENT MINES AIDED BY AIRPLANES

Canadian Airways Planes Carry Men and Equipment to Fields

The most outstanding fact as reflected in the statistics covering Canadian Airways operations during the twelve-month period, Jan. 1 to Dec. 31, 1934, is the material increase in poundage of express carried by air. From a total of 764,449 pounds (382 tons) in 1931, each succeeding year has shown a steady progression in express tonnage—apart from air mail—carried by plane. For the year 1934, the truly impressive total of 5,766,691 pounds (2,883 tons) was reached. As a comparison it is interesting to note that in 1924, only a decade ago, the total for air mail and express carried by all aircraft in Canada amounted to 39 tons for the year.

These figures indicate a steadily increasing recognition of the facilities provided by air transportation in areas that lack adequate ground transport or in which ground transport is too slow. Indirectly they afford very definite evidence of the present activity in northern mining development. It is recognized that today air transportation is essential to industrial development in the north; moreover, the efforts being put forth by the air transport companies are not being dissipated in unproductive competition with optional methods of transport, but are being applied directly to a field of endeavor which demands qualities that the airplane alone can provide—a field of endeavor in which the ultimate objective is a new industrial Canada.

The work of the air transport companies in the north is essentially of a utilitarian character—transportation of machinery, supplies, foodstuffs, and also prospectors, miners and other travellers. Machine units of 1,000 to 1,200 pounds weight are accepted as a matter of course as ordinary cargo, limitations being imposed more by dimensions than by weight. This fact is becoming better known to the manufacturers of mining machinery, who are sectionalizing their units to facilitate loading.

Air mail services in Canada are limited entirely to the mining areas and to remote points which lack speedy ground transport. Since the discontinuance of the prairie air mail service in 1931, these auxiliary services have shown a steady increase in poundage carried.

Has Great Record As Air Pilot

C. H. "PUNCH" DICKINS, O.B.E., chief pilot and northern manager for Canadian Airways, who has had wide experience in northland flying. His company has operated mail, freight and passenger planes in the northland for many years.

ZINC IMPORTS

Zinc imports in January amounted to $34,758, of which amount the United States supplied $32,514. In January, 1934, the import was reported at $29,446.

HEROES ARE MADE—NOT BORN

PROSECUTOR PROVES NO PERSECUTOR

Acquitted Halfbreeds Share Home Meal With Crown Official

To Canadians the picture usually presented of the average state attorney is a composite of the Avenging Angel, Shylock and Tarzan of the Apes. In short he's the last person on this terrestial ball that would be expected to break bread with those who have the misfortune to undergo his merciless and relentless grilling when the state demands an accounting for misdemeanor.

But up here in Canada Crown Prosecutors, whose painful and rigid duty it is to put accused persons "through the judicial mill," are friendly chaps and once a trial is over they may even invite what was formerly the enemy of the king over to dinner.

FOUND TWIN BOYS

Something like this happened here Tuesday, following the trials of Frank and Louis Twin, Cree Indians from Kinuso, acquitted of manslaughter and assault respectively in criminal court.

Edward B. Cogswell, K.C., veteran of many a thrilling—and oftimes tragic—battle in the courts as the crown's representative before the bar of British justice, went to his home on the South Side after the Twin boys had been freed.

On entering his home who should he find waiting in the parlor but Frank and Louis. They wanted to see about their train tickets back home on the Swan River reservation.

"Have you boys had anything to eat tonight?" their recent prosecutor asked.

NOT A WORD MENTIONED

The two copper-skinned lads needed no second invitation but each proceeded to satisfy the urgings of the inner man in a manner delightful to both the diners and their host.

Not a word was mentioned about the happenings of only a few hours before and after two sturdy native appetites had been satisfied the twin boys bade a fond farewell to Mr. Cogswell and departed.

Irish Agitators Sent to Camp

DUBLIN, March 28.—Forty Irish Republicans arrested in a police roundup following violence believed to be in connection with the transportation strike, were transferred under heavy guard Wednesday to a military prison camp at Curragh, County Kildare.

KOMARYNSKY IS ACQUITTED OF MANSLAUGHTER

A supreme court jury Wednesday deliberated just 25 minutes before freeing John Komarynsky, Wabamun miner, of a manslaughter charge arising out of a fatal highway crash on December 17 last in which John Dlaboha, fellow miner, was killed.

The crown had contended that accused was intoxicated when his auto, in which Dlaboha was a passenger, swerved across the highway near Fallis, and collided with a truck, but Komarynsky blamed glare headlights and a slap on the arm by the deceased for the fatal occurrence.

After stating he agreed with the finding of the jury Mr. Justice Ford warned Komarynsky to be more careful in the future when driving a motor car.

"Let this occurrence be a warning for the future that when you drink be careful that you are at all times capable of driving safely before you operate an automobile. I think you were entitled to the benefit of a reasonable doubt on the evidence submitted," the court stated.

Accused had admitted drinking four glasses of beer at the Gainford beer parlor on the day of the accident but denied he was under the influence of alcohol.

G. J. Bryan, Stony Plain, was counsel for the defence and E. B. Cogswell, K.C., presented the case for the crown.

Dies After Crash

VICTORIA, March 28.—Alfred L. Christenson died Wednesday from injuries suffered Tuesday when a car he was driving struck a Canadian National Railways train at a Sooke highway crossing.

DISCRIMINATION IN MUSIC CHARGED EXHIBITION BOARD

Discrimination in favor of members of the American Federation of Musicians against National Musicians' Union Local No. 9, in engagement of bands for the 1934 summer fair, was charged against the Edmonton Exhibition Association at a meeting of the Board of directors, Wednesday night.

The matter was raised by Walter Clevely, director, when consideration of estimates for this year's band entertainment came up. He drew a sharp return fire from Carl Berg who declared that the statement read by Mr. Clevely "should be taken with a grain of salt." Satisfactory service in previous years was the ground on which certain bands were employed, Mr. Berg said.

No action was taken on the matter and the amounts budgetted for bands were passed. Consideration would be given to Mr. Clevely's representations when the engagement of bands comes before the board, President J. M. Douglas said. Percy W. Abbott, K.C., managing director, stated he would require direction from the board in order to avoid friction encountered last year.

With prize money boosted to $15,000 against $10,000 last year, amounts tagged for new attractions and the whole expense account raised more than $9,000, the association's budget of expenditures and estimated revenue for the 1935 summer fair was passed by the board.

Total revenue this year is estimated at $86,075, against $82,465.76 in 1935. Recommended expenditure for the 1935 fair is $76,765, while the total actually spent in 1934 was $67,303.85.

With the final date for entries closed, the entries for the spring livestock show are encouraging, Mr. Abbott reported. The lists are well filled in cattle, horses and equestrian classes, he said.

Hitler — Eden Were Opposite In War Trenches

BERLIN, March 28.—Adolf Hitler and Anthony Eden discovered by accident, it was disclosed Wednesday, that they were lying in directly opposite trenches on a Great War battlefield exactly 18 years ago to the day.

While illustrating a point, Eden turned his menu card over and drew a map of a British sector showing exactly which trench sheltered him in 1917.

Half Price! Hand-Woven, All Linen Tuffle Towels

Regular 97c Each
Each 48c

Yes, the tuffle towels you've always wanted, but thought in the 'luxury' class . . . now within the reach of the careful budget! What a clearance! The all-linen weave is beautifully soft and absorbent . . . and with ordinary care it stays that way actually for years! Some in ivory color, with hemstitched borders in pastels. Some with lengthwise stripes in a rainbow of pretty colorings. Others in all-over pastels — green, blue or orchid, with the same colors in the borders. All in first quality, needless to say. Early shopping is urged, for quantities are strictly limited.
